ONTARIO TOUR OF MR. BORDEN

Welcomed by Conservatives of Woodstock on Way to Aylmer Meeting—Affairs of Transcontinental Railway

GOOD PROSPECT AT NEXT ELECTION

Mr. Doherty of Montreal Brings Message of Goodwill From His Province to the People of Ontario

WOODSTOCK, Ont., June 17.—Local Conservatives met Mr. Borden and his party at ten o'clock this morning on his way to Aylmer, and a reception was held at the Conservative Club rooms. Afterward Mr. Borden paid a brief visit to the hospital for epileptics, where he was received by Dr. Williams, the superintendent, and C. C. Hodgins, formerly M.P.P. for North Middlesex.

At Aylmer, Mr. Borden criticized the Government for its unbusinesslike handling of the National Transcontinental Railway, and said that if the Conservatives and their allies worked hard the present Government would surely be defeated at the next election.

Mr. Doherty, M.P. for St. Anne's Montreal, also spoke and condemned those who would array province against province. He paid a tribute to Mr. Borden as a leader and brought a message of good fellowship to the people of Ontario from the province of Quebec.

American Team Defeated
SYDNEY, June 17.—The all-American rugby football team, composed of students from the universities of California and Nevada and Leland Stanford university, were defeated today by the Sydney university team 17 to 6.

Old Jail Governor Dead
SHERBROOKE, Que., June 17.—Mr. Reid, governor of Sherbrooke jail, is dead, aged 82 years. He succeeded his father as governor of the district jail in 1881. He was the oldest governor in the province and probably in Canada.

Will Rebuild Mill
ALDERGROVE, June 17.—It is understood that the Dominion Shingle Company will at once replace the shingle mill destroyed last Monday by fire. The company has a large cut of bolts as well as large timber limits, which they are under agreement to clear within a certain period. The Great Northern Railway Company are completing a spur to the millsite and this will be of great assistance in placing material on the ground for a new mill.

DAY OF IDLENESS ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Prospect of New Railroad Law and Other Factors Combine to Keep Transactions Down to Low Point

NEW YORK, June 17.—Dealings in stocks today were unusually inactive, and the first hour fell below 100,000 shares, the second hour falling to one quarter of that number and these meagre figures shrinking by one third during the noon hour.

Transactions of less than 9,000 shares in a period of an hour comes as near idleness as often occurs on the floor of the New York stock exchange. The aggregate for the day was less than 20,000 shares, the smallest day's business for the year, and in fact for nearly two years, a midsummer day in 1908 blocking the range of comparison with a total of 73,000. Brokers on the floor of the exchange were driven to "horse play."

as a resort from the dullness of conditions. None of the explanations offered were very convincing. The approaching enactment of the railroad law was cited as a repressive factor. President Ripley of the Santa Fe was authority for the statement that his company was waiting to see the new law before going on with improvement. The operations of the railroad presidents under the new law and their opinions regarding it interest stock market element as much as the law itself.

The home-coming of ex-President Roosevelt was another subject discussed as helping to hold up stock market activity.

HEAVY IMMIGRATION
New Hall to Be Built at Calgary—This Year's Arrivals Expected to Total 200,000.

CALGARY, June 17.—Work on the new immigration hall will be commenced almost immediately, the present building being entirely inadequate to provide accommodation for the immigrants rushing into Calgary. This city now appears to be the objective point of the major portion of those immigrating into the west, and in the minds of landseekers occupies a position similar to that of Winnipeg ten years ago. Bruce Walker, commissioner of immigration, who is now in the city arranging for the construction of the building, states that at least 200,000 immigrants will settle in the Canadian west this year. Of this number 125,000 will come from the States and 75,000 from Europe.

BOMB IS THROWN AMONG POLICE

One Russian Gendarme Killed and Four Mortally Wounded by Explosion—Assassin Is Arrested

WARSAW, Russia, June 17.—A bomb was exploded with fatal results in a squad of gendarmes at the Gorkizsk station, on the Vienna railroad, thirty miles from here today.

One of the gendarmes was killed outright, four received mortal wounds and their chief was slightly injured. The bomb thrower was arrested.

An attempt is made by the authorities to connect today's violence with that at Radom, when Colonel Wonszinski, of the gendarmes, was shot and killed by a policeman. On that occasion the assassin and an accomplice committed suicide on the spot.

Twenty-Eight Recovered and All Identified Except One—New Arrangements for Continuance of Search

MONTREAL, June 17.—The men employed by the city to delve in the ruins of the Herald building were taken off tonight, and tomorrow morning a contractor engaged by the Herald company will take up the search for the four bodies known to be still entombed in the wreckage. But little more can be done until some of the heavy machinery is moved, and this requires facilities which they did not possess.

Of the twenty-eight bodies taken out all have been identified and claimed with one exception, that of a man. As the bodies last taken out were not so badly defaced as those first removed, it is expected that when the others are recovered it will be possible to establish the identity of this unfortunate by means of elimination. The bodies claimed were those of May Butler, Rene Littlejohn, Clement Bormann, (Continued on Page 2.)

MESSAGE FROM MR. ROOSEVELT

Former President Sends Greeting in Advance by Wireless—Warns American Public Against Bogus Interviews

NOTHING TO SAY ABOUT POLITICS

Specifies Places at Which He Expects to Deliver His Earliest Addresses—Speaks of His Tour

KAISERIN AUGUSTE VICTORIA (by Marconi wireless to Stasconett), Mass., June 17.—Former President Roosevelt on the eve of his arrival home tonight gave out the following interview:

"I have been away a year and a quarter. While I enjoyed Africa most, I enjoyed Europe a very great deal. In fact I fail to see how any one could have had a more interesting pleasanter trip than I have had.

"I wish to express my very deep appreciation of the more than generous courtesy and hospitality with which I was treated by the people and the rulers of the countries through which I passed. But of course I am very glad to get home.

"I appreciate deeply the kindness of a multitude of friends, who have asked me to speak in different places and hope they will understand that it is simply a physical impossibility for me even to consider accepting more than one in a hundred of these invitations. I shall not speak for more than two months, and then speak first at the John Brown celebration in Kansas City, at the Cheyenne frontier gathering, at the conservation congress in St. Paul and possibly at one or two other places.

"I shall have nothing whatever to say in the immediate future about politics and will hold no interview whatever on the subject with anyone, and anything purporting to be an interview with me that appears can be safely set down at once as an invention.

"I take this opportunity of acknowledging with the warmest of thanks the numerous Marconigrams and letter greetings which I received in London before starting, and which it has been impossible to acknowledge. I need not say how deeply I am touched by these kind messages and am sure the senders will understand that my failure to answer all of them is due simply to the fact that they are so numerous that it is an absolute physical impossibility."

MUCH COMPLAINT OF DEPORTATION

LONDON, June 17.—In reference to the deportation of hosiery workers from Canada, the men in an interview, complained that their attention was like that of convicts at the immigration hospital, without any explanation. When a week had elapsed they were told they were going to Paris, and were ordered to enter a carriage. Two officials went with them, and subsequently two policemen, with drawn staffs joined the party. They declared they had no idea they were being deported, until they had reached the steamer. The men stated that they had as much as a pound's worth of their money. One yesterday stated that on their arrival at Liverpool Allan officers took pity on them and paid their railway fares to Nottingham. The men are still hoping to return and say they had sold their homes and given up employment to go to Canada.

PARIS, Ont., June 17.—There is considerable commotion here on the circumstances of the deportation of hosiery workers who were brought to Canada by a local manufacturing firm. The men had been picked out as skilled hands by a representative sent to England, and their fares paid to Paris. The matter of detention was taken by the firm, and every effort possible was made to have the party sent through. The required $25 was offered for each man, but the department at Ottawa was obdurate and would not move.

GOVERNOR GENERAL SPEAKS OF CANADA
Advices People of the Mother Country to Pay Us Visits—Incidents of Arrival at Bristol

BRISTOL, Eng., June 17.—On Earl Grey's arrival yesterday he was immediately surrounded by a band of eager pressmen, but held his own against the fire of questions with frank good humor and subtle avoidance of controversial topics.

"I had a delightful voyage on a most comfortable ship," said Earl Grey. "The development of Canada is going on as strong as it can go. The Maritime Provinces are as good for immigration as the northwest, and the country's prospects were never brighter."

Continuing, he said: "Why don't you come and see the country. You cannot understand it till you see it and visit it. When you have visited it once you won't be happy until you have seen it a dozen times."

Earl Grey added that Canadians were pleased with the present class of immigrants.

He was finally asked about the Imperial spirit in Canada, and replied: "The Imperial spirit is all right in Canada. Why, they are more Imperial than you are. I wish you would come to Toronto and see an Empire Day celebration as I saw it. You would know what I mean. The people of Canada believe in themselves and their future as part of the Empire."

AFTER COTTON POOL

James A. Patten and Seven Other Alleged Manipulators Indicted by Grand Jury.

NEW YORK, June 17.—The Government came out in the open today with its attempt to prove manipulation of the cotton market. James A. Patten of Chicago and seven lesser in the speculative field have been indicted, charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade, under the Sherman anti-trust law. The indictment was returned by a special grand jury late this afternoon.

Five of those indicted—Patten, Eugene B. Seales, Frank B. Hayne, Wm. Brown and M. H. Rothschild, gave bail of $5,000. For the other three, who were neither present in court nor represented by lawyers, bench warrants were issued. They are Sydney J. Herman, Robert M. Thompson and Chas. A. Kittle.

Immediately the indictment was announced there was an exciting break on the New York stock exchange, July and August deliveries declining about $1.50 a bale.

The bull market appeared to be in no manner disturbed, however, by the Government's action, and by their buying orders helped to rally prices during the last few minutes, July closing at 14.92 and August at 14.49 bid, or about 11 to 14 points up from the low level of the day.

CHILLIWACK, June 17.—Angus McKenzie, the 13-year-old son of Alex. McKenzie, who lives just outside of the city, shot himself to death yesterday morning. The lad was out hunting rabbits and birds with a 22-calibre rifle. His little brother, who was in an adjoining field, heard a shot and cry and he hurried across the fence, finding his brother lying prone upon the ground with the rifle beside him. The shot had passed through the head of the boy, touching the brain. It is supposed that he forgot that the rifle was loaded and started to examine the muzzle.

STOCKHOLDERS ARE ANXIOUS

Agent of United Wireless at Winnipeg Is Visited by Many Unfortunate Purchasers of Shares in Company

HAS MUCH MONEY INVESTED HIMSELF

Receives Message From Arrested President Through Medium of Seattle Office, But No Explanation Is Given

WINNIPEG, June 17.—Wireless stockholders made this a busy day for R. A. Grant, Manitoba manager of the United Wireless Telegraph Co. All through the morning hours investors in the stock of this company thronged the well-furnished Winnipeg offices of the company, seeking information as to the status of affairs.

Manager Grant could do nothing but inform his callers that he was as much in the dark as any of his visitors as to the real situation. Mr. Grant, who says he is a heavy investor in the stock of the concern, has not received a single line of information from the head office of the company in New York in reply to his repeated telegrams of inquiry as to the conditions and method of dealing with stockholders in view of the crisis in the United's affairs.

But Mr. Grant did hear from C. C. Wilson, of the Company's New York offices, via Seattle. Mr. Grant explained that the telegram over Wilson's signature was probably sent to Seattle and duplicated there by Mr. Parker, the Seattle manager, to sub-agencies in Canada, of which Winnipeg is one. Wilson's telegram was to the effect that the United would come out on the evening of the 17th, but no real explanation for the action of the American Government's officials.

The local manager said this morning that he would take no chances. "I am as deep in this matter, financially, as anyone in Manitoba. I trusted Wilson implicitly. I lose money if any of the investors I have secured lose. I am standing pat on my instructions to my sub-agents in Manitoba to take no more subscriptions until this thing clears up."

"Every letter in every file in this office is open to callers who have invested in stock in the United," he said. "I don't wish to appear as having swindled or consented knowingly to the swindle of anyone in my district who has bought any of this stock."

FISHERY RIGHTS IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Sir Robert Finlay Argues That Only Fishermen of American Nationality Have Privileges—Subject to Regulations

THE HAGUE, June 17.—At the fisheries tribunal today Sir Robert Finlay contested the U. S. claim that American fishermen were not amenable to British and colonial fishery regulations on the same ground that French fishermen were not amenable to them.

Prior to the treaty of 1904 on the so-called French shore of Newfoundland, counsel said, France had always laid claim to exclusive rights, and for that reason, and in order to avoid trouble with France, Great Britain had abstained from pressing the question of jurisdiction over French fishermen. American fishermen, on the other hand, never claimed such exclusive rights. The treaty of 1813 merely gave them the liberty to fish in common with English fishermen.

Sir Robert Finlay subsequently turned to the question as to whether American fishing boats could employ Newfoundlanders or other persons not of American nationality as fishermen. He maintained that they could not, because the treaty of 1813 mentioned the fact that only Americans could be employed. He proceeded to argue that Newfoundland was entitled to forbid Newfoundlanders to serve American fishing boats because fishing rights were granted to American fishermen alone, and because that expression could not be interpreted to mean American capitalists resident in the United States who sent fishing boats manned by foreigners to the coasts of Newfoundland. Only those who actually did fishing were fishermen in the terms of the treaty of 1813.

Sir Robert, whose speech occupied eight entire days, concluded today the presentations of the British contentions.

TO GO SLOW WITH IMPROVEMENT WORK

City Will Find Where it Stands
Financially Before Undertaking
Any More Ambitious Schemes

With the amount of local improvement work now ahead of the city and the prospect of something up appears this year rather doubtful, the members of the streets committee of the city council have come to the conclusion that the indiscriminate passing of new works will prove useless, and as the city's financial burden under the various schemes would be quite definitely increased, a halt will be called in the works programme until such time as the actual outlay by the city under the schemes already passed is definitely known. In a short time the work of striking the tax rate for the year will be undertaken, when it will then be known what expenditures the city will have to meet.

At last night's meeting of the committee a number of ambitious local improvement schemes were under consideration. A petition from owners on Minto, Durban, Carnsen, Woodlands, Clifford, Brooks and Walton streets and Fairfield, and a petition for permanent sidewalks, boulevards, asphalt pavements, etc. The engineer stated the scheme was an extensive one and it was decided to notify the petitioners that the city cannot undertake this work at the present time. A like answer will be returned to the owners. In Craigdarroch subdivision, where a complete local improvement work is asked for. Other similar requests were laid over, the engineer being instructed to report on that asked for Hollywood Park, what the cost will be and what petitioners of the work he considers imperative. The engineer reported that to pave Dallas road from Simcoe Street to San Juan street with asphalt pavement 32 feet wide and pave from San Juan Street to Beacon Hill park and lay an eight foot sidewalk on the north side and a twelve foot sidewalk on the south side, excepting opposite the shore line, where a sidewalk should be in keeping with the sea wall, the city to bear the share that would be borne by owners on the south side and one-third of the cost of the north side, the balance to be charged to the owners immediately benefited would cost a total of $84,622, of which the city's share would be $41,000. Consideration of this scheme was laid over for a week.

Improvements to the Belleville street sidewalk by widening it seven and one-half feet from Government street to the C. P. R. offices, and widening the end of the Causeway also to be widened, and a five foot walk be laid close to the Causeway walls at an estimated cost of $1,700 will be undertaken.

As the city barrister has advised that the change to the present improvement scheme for Esquimalt road which has already been passed for macadam, but on which the owners now wish asphalt laid, cannot be made until a new by-law has been passed. The old by-law will be accordingly closed up and the new measure passed.

Queen's avenue from Quadra street to Chambers street will be improved by grading, draining and the laying of a bituminous macadam pavement with a permanent sidewalk on the north side from Vancouver street to Chambers street with lateral sewer and water connections.

The tender of the Pacific Coast Construction company for sidewalk construction on Maple, Quadra, Blanchard, Union and Caledonia streets for the price of $17,532 will be accepted, provided the company will furnish the requisite bond to complete the work within the required time for the figure stated.

Despite the objections of Alderman Fullerton, who claimed the proposed building would be together too pretentious, the committee decided to accept the tender of J. F. Holland for $2,375 for the erection of a residence for the caretaker at Smith's Hill reservoir. It was also decided to have more pretentious plans prepared for the combined dressing room, conveniences and caretaker's quarters at Beacon Hill park. There will be included a refreshment booth which, the mayor stated, can be rented for a sufficient sum yearly to meet the cost of interest and sinking fund. Alderman Humber has had plans prepared for a structure which would cost about $1,200, but it was deemed advisable to enlarge the building to make it fully meet all requirements. The cost was limited to $2,500.

leaving the four missing and the body awaiting identification, those of John Wade, Gustave Lippo, John Cunningham, John Clouthier and Reuben Morrison.

The funeral of ten of the victims, who were members of the Typographical Union, will take place tomorrow. It will be a joint funeral, ten hearses being in the line.

The inquest will be resumed in the morning, and an attempt will be made to close it up tomorrow evening.

A dispute took place here this morning as to the identity of a girl burned in the Herald fire. One family claimed the remains as those of Olive Hart, while another claimed they were those of Irene Berriman. Both families wanted the body for burial. Poisoned by Hair Tonic

HAYDEN, Col., June 17.—Lewis Corbin, Roy Buzlek and William Caldwell are dead from drinking a mixture containing alcohol which was used as a hair tonic. Buzlek is the owner of a restaurant and the others were ranchmen. It is said that the men had been indulging in drink and did not know that the mixture was poisonous when they ran across it.

Boy Badly Burned.

CHATHAM, Ont., June 17.—In a fire that destroyed the residence of W. Bell of Tupperville his two sons narrowly escaped being burned, and one was so badly burned that it is feared his eyesight will be destroyed. When the lads retired they left a bright light burning for their father, who had gone fishing. The elder boy awoke a few hours later to find the place in flames. Wrapping himself in a blanket he rushed to his brother's room and succeeded in dragging him out of bed, but was terribly burned.

FREIGHT SERVICE TO NEW WESTMINSTER

Captain Troup of C.P.R. Offers to Place Steamer on Route Giving Twice a Week Sailings

The joint efforts of the Victoria and New Westminster boards of trade to have a regular freight steamer on the run between Victoria and Fraser river points have been advanced a stage by a letter received in New Westminster from Capt. Troup, of the C. P. R. navigation service saying that arrangements have been made to put a steamer on the run for two trips a week.

The matter was discussed at some length in the New Westminster board of trade on Thursday night when it was maintained that the success of the innovation is secured, providing the C. P. R. put the steamer on schedule, running time so that shippers and receivers will know the exact hour to expect the arrival and the departure of the boat. It was explained by members of the board that the reason private companies had placed steamers in commission on the run between Vancouver island and the Fraser river and the indifferent success formerly met with by the C. P. R. boats engaged in this traffic was on account of the fact that the company did not have its boat on schedule time so that shippers and consignees never knew when to expect it.

CHILDREN OF THE ALCOHOLIC

Research Proves That Temperance Advocates Have Hitherto Been Wrong in Their Conclusions

(By W. Hamilton Rhodes)

LONDON, June 17.—The Times, in an article on the "Children of the Alcoholic" says that a report on this subject prepared by Miss Ethel Elderton, Calton research scholar, with the assistance of Professor Karl Pearson, and the conclusions which it formulates are likely to excite something like consternation among a large number of temperance advocates. It has for many years been one of the recognized customs of teetotalers to declare that parental alcoholism is eminently injurious to offspring; and, although physiologists have long been doubtful of the power of an extraneous agency to modify the germ plasm in the manner asserted, there can be no doubt that a belief to this effect has sunk deeply into the public mind, and would hardly be questioned upon a platform.

Whatever else was believed or disbelieved about the effect of "drink" few would be bold enough to deny that the children of drunkards are likely, on the whole, to be "degenerates" or the inheritors of physical and intellectual defects calculated to interfere with their eventual usefulness as adult members of the community. The opposite view has only been maintained on the basis of statistics furnished by experience of the children received into Dr. Barnardo's homes, children among whom the proportion of drunkenness among the parents would certainly be large, and would probably be only limited by lack of opportunity; while something like 90 per cent. of the children have been found to be convertible into healthy, industrious and self-respecting members of society.

No Support

It is highly interesting to find that the detailed examinations conducted by Miss Elderton afford no support to the doctrine that the children of alcoholic parents enter upon life under any inherent disadvantages, and that in the case of more than three thousand children examined in Edinburgh and in Manchester, among whom, according to the tables appended to the report, nearly one-half were the offspring of a drunken parent or parents, those in whom this condition was fulfilled were not in any way inferior to the children of teetotalers or of the sober.

On the grave question whether the children of alcoholics may inherit a tendency to become alcoholics themselves, when adult age is reached, the report sets forth no conclusion, but it has not been omitted from consideration, and evidence bearing upon it is in course of being collected. Miss Elderton and Professor Pearson were hardly prepared for the conclusions at (Continued on Page 7.)

BIG STAMPEDE TO NEW EL DORADO

Mr. J. F. Lins Says Stewart Will Become the Greatest Mining Camp Ever Known in Canada

Vividly impressed with the mineral possibilities of Stewart, and bringing to the details of latest big gold strike at Bitter Creek, Mr. J. F. Lins, formerly Maitre d'hotel at the Empress, but now the principal in the Lins Hotel company of Stewart, arrived in the city last night from the northern mining camp. He was there when the stampede for Bitter Creek commenced. Over six hundred people, he states, went from Stewart, while hundreds more from Prince Rupert and the adjoining territory were on their way to the new Eldorado.

Mr. Lins while at Stewart met and conversed with Mr. C. M. Delgroves, the lucky prospector responsible for the discovery of the gold reef at Bitter Creek. The reef is 24 miles from Stewart and has been traced for a distance of 18 miles. The great white mineral belt of porphyry formation can be seen for miles, and since the wonderful reports brought in by Mr. Delgroves, it has proved the lodestar of hundreds. All Stewart is perfectly convinced of the exceptional riches of the latest strike, and Mr. Lins states that the mining camp will become the greatest ever known in Canada.

Mr. Lins says that the D. D. Mann townsite, which lies on the threshold of the present town has been surveyed and the lots are not ready to be placed on the market. The terminus of the Portland Canal Short Line will be in the heart of this townsite. The provincial government is about to commence the construction of the wharf which will provide accommodation for the steamers, which are arriving, crowded with prospectors and settlers every trip. The Empress hotel at Stewart, of which Mr. Lins is the proprietor, will be business on July 1st, and will contain 70 rooms, and be up-to-date in every particular. If necessary further accommodation will be found in an annex which is proposed to build. The structure now in course of erection is two storeys in height. Mr. Lins leaves again for the north in the middle of next week. While here he is a guest at the Empress hotel.

STEEL MANUFACTURE

Mr. Moore Speaks of Ironclad Plant
—B. C. Steel Suggested for Ross Rifle Material.

VANCOUVER, June 17.—The yacht Aquilo, Captain McLellan, owned by the Western Steel Corporation, reached port this morning and docked at the Johnson wharf. Commodore Law, Mr. Moore, Mr. Jamieson, and Mr. Davis were on board, and in the afternoon the Aquilo took some of their friends for a run around the harbor. The yacht will sail tonight for Seattle.

The Aquilo, it will be remembered, was brought around from New York recently, and behaved beautifully in heavy weather off Cape Horn. She is an oil burner and develops 19 knots and her accommodation stamps her as the most luxurious yacht on this coast. She has an unusual amount of room below and the staterooms are furnished artistically, and the general appointments of the yacht, which carries a crew of 14 hands, are quite in keeping with her needs.

"Our plant at Ironclad," said Mr. Moore, on board the Aquilo, "is now turning out steel daily and in a few weeks we will be manufacturing steel for all kinds of commercial purposes. We intend to develop our coal lands at Graham Island immediately, and will build a smelter at Vancouver as soon as we have secured the site for which we are now looking."

One of the callers during the morning was Capt. J. S. Tait of the 6th Regiment, and the talk veered to rifle shooting, for Mr. Moore has donated rifles to marksmen making a score of a hundred on the range.

Mr. Law was interested in the Ross rifle, and brought forward the idea that British Columbia steel could be used for making the gun.

"If we can get the analysis of the steel used in the Ross rifle, we can go one better, I think," he remarked, "and there is no reason why British Columbia steel should not provide the material for the manufacture of the Canadian army rifle."

Mr. Faulkner and R. P. McLennan were among other callers during the day.

FIND NO BODY

Divers Search Bottom of Lake Como
in Vain for Traces of Porter
Charlton.

COMO, Italy, June 17.—Throughout today divers rained the bottom of Lake Como in the vicinity of where the body of Mrs. Harry Scott Charlton was found in a trunk, but their work was fruitless. They failed to discover the body of her husband Porter Charlton, whom many believe to have been murdered by the slayer of his wife, bringing up nothing from the watery depths that shed any light on the mystery.

Local interest in the case continues intense, and while the operations proceeded today they were watched with unabated interest by a great crowd on the banks.

The police have doubled their efforts to make the collection of evidence that the young bank clerk is still alive. They are operating on the principle that if Charlton is dead he is removed a factor in the case, while if he survived the tragedy, every hour spent in following up less promising theories weakens the probability of ever locating him.

Rush to Stewart

VANCOUVER, June 17.—The departure of the Princess Beatrice for northern British Columbia ports last night was reminiscent of the early days of the Klondike rush, for the vessel was crowded with people bound for the Portland Canal district. The news of the strike at Bitter Creek had an immediate effect on steamer travel. The Camosun, of the Union Steamship Company, which sailed on Wednesday night, had a large number of passengers for Stewart, while last night nearly all the people who went out in the Beatrice were bound for the new diggings. Prospectors, miners, brokers, engineers, and all sorts and conditions of men were booked out, and the scene on the wharf was quite like the old days of the big rush.

SURVEYING ROUTE OF SAANICH LINE

B. C. Electric Railway Company Has Two Parties in Peninsula—Property Owners Want Railway Built

Having received satisfactory encouragement from Saanich property holders, the British Columbia Electric Railway company has taken the initial step looking towards the carrying out of the project of constructing a line from Victoria through the adjacent peninsula.

Two survey parties are in the field. One has been established in the vicinity of the Royal Oaks, and another near Mount Douglas. Their instructions are to run three lines, one along the east coast, another through the centre, and another along the west coast of the peninsula. This work done the company will be in a position to make a selection of the best route from all viewpoints.

HUGE LUMBER MILL FOR CROFTON

American Company to Erect $750,000 Plant and Exploit Big Timber Area Purchased From E. & N. Railway

A branch of the E. & N. railway will be constructed from Duncan to Cowichan Lake forthwith and a three-quarter million dollar lumber mill will be built at tide-water, somewhere in the vicinity of Crofton, as soon as a site has been definitely selected.

These two enterprises, which have been pending for some months and in the aggregate mean the investment of millions in the development of island resources, were clinched yesterday when Mr. R. Marpole, vice-president of the local railway, and Mr. W. E. Marsh, representative of the American Finance and Securities company, held a final conference.

The concern for which Mr. Marsh has been acting is the purchaser of the track of over 50,000 acres of timber lands about Cowichan Lake. One of the conditions of the sale was that, when the new owners were ready to begin the active exploitation of their holdings, the railway should construct a twenty-five mile spur, terminating an outlet from the logging camps to salt water.

Mr. Marsh, on his arrival here some days ago, announced that the American Securities company was prepared to commence operations. He was met in Victoria by Mr. Marpole and together they made a tour of the island. They visited Cowichan Lake, looked at several possible mill sites, and inspected the land clearing and construction operations further north. Last night Mr. Marsh laughingly commented on the peculiar tendency of any property he had happened to glance at ascending in value with balloon-like buoyancy. "They seem to forget," he added, "that we can go almost anywhere as long as we are on the foreshore."

On the return of the party yesterday the final agreement was reached. The American Finance and Securities Co. will begin the construction of a mill and the installation of a complete plant which will be huge in its proportions and its daily capacity, speaking comparatively, and which will cost, it is estimated, over three-quarters of a million.

"We hope to get started in the spring," said Mr. Marsh. "Of course I can't say, definitely, that we will be ready then. That railway can't be constructed in a month. But we mean business. The company I represent is a solid, conservative, business institution. We are not investing nearly two millions without expecting to get a fair return and the sooner a start is made the better from our standpoint."

The only point over which there remained any uncertainty, Mr. Marsh declared, was the location of the mill. Once a conclusion was reached and the property secured there would be no further hesitancy. The work would begin and be hurried from its inception. It was estimated that in the expanse of timber secured there was enough Douglas Fir to keep an outfit, large as would be that installed, cutting for from forty to fifty years. The project would give permanent employment to hundreds of men and, in conjunction with the railway construction, that was contingent upon it, meant much to the island. "But," he added, "it isn't necessary to dwell on that point. Victorians must realize it."

Mr. Marpole, when questioned, referred the Colonist representative to Mr. Marsh, indorsing all he said concerning the negotiations. As the surveys of the Cowichan line have been completed for some time it is thought that no time will be lost calling for tenders for construction.

C.P.R. PRESIDENT

Halifax Board of Trade Programme Not Businesslike Enough for Sir Thomas.

HALIFAX, June 17.—The views of the Halifax Board of Trade and of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy as to the best way for him to spend two or three hours in Halifax do not coincide. This was shown in a telegram from the president of the C.P.R.

The Board of Trade proposed taking Sir Thomas for a sail on the harbor, giving him a luncheon at the Halifax Club and holding a reception in his honor. Wiring from Kentville this morning to the secretary of the board, Sir Thomas cut out this programme and said he would proceed from the railway station at ten o'clock to the Victoria general hospital, where he would call on Premier Murray, thence going to the city hall to see Mayor Chisholm, and thereafter expressing his desire to meet the business men of the city at the Board of Trade rooms and leaving at 1:30 for Montreal. The president of the C.P.R. went over the Dominion Atlantic Railway system today, leaving Yarmouth at 9 o'clock tonight for Windsor, which will be reached at six o'clock tomorrow morning. At eight the special will start for Halifax, reaching here at ten. P. Giffins, general manager of the D.A.R., has been on the C.P.R. special all day participating in the inspection.

WATCHING BOOKMAKERS

Directors of Coney Island Jockey Club Take Stringent Measures to Prevent Law Violation.

NEW YORK, June 17.—Sixty private detectives were engaged by the Coney Island Jockey Club today and filed their credentials with the county clerk in Brooklyn.

They have been instructed by officers of the Sheephead Bay track to prevent all bookmaking operations at the track, to arrest bookmakers or their clerks whenever they congregate, to prevent the printing and publishing of odds, and to arrest bookmakers who are detected in the act of carrying writing sheets in their pockets.

This action by the Jockey Club is supposed to have been inspired by the recent action of the legislature in enacting a law making owners of race tracks or directors of clubs personally responsible for gambling which takes place on their grounds.

REPUBLICS MAY FIGHT

Report Circulated That Peru and Ecuador Mediation May Prove Failure.

LIMA, Peru, June 17.—It was rumored today that the attempted mediation between Peru and Ecuador had failed owing to the conditions imposed by Ecuador as a basis for the peace negotiations.

Both countries began several days ago the withdrawal from the frontiers of the troops which had been massed when the outbreak of hostilities was believed to be imminent. The withdrawal was in accordance with the insistence of the mediating powers when the United States, Brazil and Argentina undertook to act jointly between the two republics which, it seemed obvious, could be otherwise settled only by war.

Nevertheless vague reports that Ecuador had qualified its consent to mediation have been circulated here until now they appear to be gaining credence.

VATICAN INCIDENT

President-Elect of Argentina Received by Pope in Rather Unusual Circumstances.

ROME, June 17.—There was an audience under unprecedented circumstances at the Vatican yesterday when the Pope received privately Roque Saenz Pena, president-elect of Argentina, but who is still in Rome in the capacity of Argentine minister to the Quirinal, and so by the rule of the protest established by the Holy See, after the fall of the church's temporal power, barred from the presence of the pontiff.

This technical difficulty was overcome by the announcement of Saenz Pena that he had in fact ceased to be minister to the Quirinal, although he had not yet received his letters of recall, while on the other hand, though the chosen president of Argentina he would not assume his new office until October, and pending his inauguration was not to be regarded as the head of a Catholic state.

Injunction Continued

HALIFAX, June 17.—Judge Drysdale, in the Supreme Court today, continued the injunction in the case of the Cumberland Coal Co., Springhill, vs. McDougall, and said he was satisfied that there had been intimidation of the men engaged to work on the company's property, where a strike was in progress.

Two Women Drowned

TORONTO, June 17.—Shortly before 11 o'clock tonight the ferryboat John Hanlan, while on a return trip from the island to the city, ran into and overturned a gasoline launch containing two young men and two young women. All four were thrown into the water, and the women sank immediately. Search is now being made for their bodies.

Killed in Runaway

SHELBURNE, Ont., June 17.—John Marshall, a well-to-do and highly respected farmer living about one mile from here, lost his life as a result of a runaway this afternoon. He was working on the road unloading gravel when an auto frightened his horses, causing them to run away. Mr. Marshall was standing on the wagon at the time, and was thrown to the ground and dragged some distance.

Walks Into Police Net

TORONTO, June 17.—While a posse of provincial police was searching for an Italian murderer in the bush in Muskoka the man was arrested in Toronto this morning. John Pisanj walked into the police net at the Union station. He had boarded the train near Parry Sound. The conductor was suspicious when lifting his ticket and turned him over to the detectives at the station. He is believed to be the man who stabbed Raphael Domensoll in a row at Parry Sound.

ST. According to official information the rebel Persian prince, who has his Persian nationality while serving in the Russian army. This fact diminishes the moral responsibility of Russia for his disloyal behavior, and at the same time raises a nice question as to who should undertake his capture and punishment.

THE REGISTRY OFFICE

The regulation debarbing the general public from access to the inner portions of the Registry Offices is criticized. It is very easy to object to this or any other rule; on the other hand it is exceedingly difficult to make a rule which would satisfy everybody. There are reasons why everybody ought not to be permitted to have access to the books of the Registry Offices. The records therein are exceedingly valuable, and some restriction must be placed upon those who have a right to handle them. Manifestly this restriction cannot be of individuals, and therefore it must be confined to a class of persons.

To claim that to permit the promiscuous searching of the records would facilitate the work of the Registry Offices is to take a position that cannot be sustained. We are inclined to think, however, that the government will have to make provision for the accommodation of the public in the matter of searches, although we are not quite sure what it ought to be. It is not necessary, however, advisable it may be, for every person to employ a lawyer to search a title for him; but it might be practicable for the necessary books to be produced for the examination of any persons desirous of information. This doubtless would in most offices necessitate a new arrangement of the office and an increase in the number of clerks. We cannot see why it might not be quite feasible to provide conveniences so that any person seeking to examine a title might have the various books brought to him by a clerk, whose duty it would be to assist him in the search. But the regulation that keeps the general public outside of the room in which the registry books and the unregistered documents are kept meets with our hearty approval. We have often thought that the contrary method was open to very serious objections. We are inclined to think that a regulation forbidding all persons except the officers in charge from going behind the counters would be a wise one.

VANCOUVER EXHIBITION

Vancouver is to have an exhibition, which will open on August 15th and close on August 20th. The prize list calls for $30,000. The organization responsible for it is The Vancouver Exhibition Association, and it thus defines its objects in its Prize List, which, by the way, has been got up in an exceedingly convenient form:

- The promotion of practical and scientific husbandry in all its varying branches;
- The improvement of the breed of horses, cattle, sheep and pigs, dogs, poultry and other farm and domestic animals;
- The development of the industrial resources of the country;
- The dissemination of mechanical and scientific knowledge;
- The encouragement of the cultivation of the beautiful in nature and art;
- The stimulation of healthy rivalry for supremacy and excellence in the minds of the rising generation;
- The promotion of trade and commerce;
- The development of the rich mineral, fishing and lumbering resources of the country.

These are all excellent objects and everything from a school exhibit to "an agricultural horse trot." The City Council is represented on the Board of Management, and the names of the various officers and the Council are a guarantee that what is undertaken will be well done. We shall make other references to this event, and for the present will only express the hope that the people of Victoria will participate in it freely and attend it in large numbers. We would like to see the broadest possible spirit of comity developed between the two cities, and the exhibitions held in each of them might prove a valuable means to that end.

WORKINGMEN'S COMPENSATION

The law respecting compensation to workingmen seems to be necessary in principle. There may be doubt as to its equitableness in practice. That men engaged in hazardous employments ought to have some protector will be admitted, but that the burden of that protection ought to fall upon the person by or on whose behalf they are employed is open to grave doubt. To a wealthy corporation or a rich individual the compensation which the law provides, and it is certainly meagre enough, is rarely likely to prove burdensome, but to the person of small means it might easily prove disastrous. All industrious employees desire to enter the employers' ranks, and many of them work hard and practice strict economy in order to get together the capital needed for that purpose. All this capital may be swept out of existence by the occurrence of some accident, against which its owner could not possibly provide. It is true that there are companies which are prepared to take the risk on payment of a certain premium, but it seems hardly fair to make a man of small means carry the whole burden of such insurance. As we have said, to the rich man or corporation it is rarely a serious matter to have to pay indemnities or insurance premiums. It is the small employer and the person of limited means upon whom the responsibility falls most heavily. Yet the principle underlying the compensation is a sound one; the open question is as to who ought to provide it. In many cases the compensation cannot be collected because of the inability of the responsible person to pay it. This must frequently happen. We submit that, as the legislature has recognized the principle of compensation, it might well consider the expediency of providing a means of making its receipt certain by those entitled to receive it, and to relieve innocent people of a part of the responsibility for the consequence of acts which create a liability to pay such compensation. The suggestion has been made that a system of government insurance ought to be provided to which employers, employees and the state should contribute. The employer might reasonably be asked to contribute, because he derives benefit from the risks run by those whom he employs; the employee might reasonably be asked to contribute, because his employment is a gainful one, and in very many instances he may be the indirect cause of the accident which occasions the liability; the state might reasonably contribute, because in the public interest it is not desirable that wage-earners should be killed or incapacitated temporarily or permanently without some provision being made for their support or that of those dependent upon them. That has been done already is a step in the right direction, but that is all it is. It is not by any means the last word in respect to workingmen's compensation. We are not urging immediate legislation on the subject, but we do suggest that the considerations above advanced are worthy of investigation.

ATMOSPHERIC TEMPERATURE

A good deal of attention has been given lately to the temperature of the atmosphere, and although as yet one cannot point out any direct benefit that will accrue from the information that is being got together, it may be accepted as a fact that all information in regard to any department of human research may be found to be of value. Everyone knows that the air is colder on the mountain-tops than the sea-level, and there has been a very general impression that this decrease continues until a point is reached where what is called "absolute zero" prevails. This is supposed to be the condition of inter-stellar space, and it means that there is absolutely no heat there at all. Experiments with captive balloons have shown that the decrease as the altitude increases comes to an end at a height of about seven miles, when there is an abrupt change and the atmosphere grows warmer, although not very much so, until a certain height is reached, above which the temperature is constant as far as it has as yet been possible to ascertain. No one jumps at conclusions in scientific matters nowadays, and hence the above is as far as any one is warranted in going, but as the theory of the absolute zero of inter-stellar space was based upon the supposition that there was a constant decrease proportionate to the distance from the earth's surface, there is no longer any ground except pure speculation upon which it can be sustained. What seems to have been established is that the earth is surrounded by a great isothermal layer. This layer is not at a uniform distance above the surface of the earth, but in all probability its under surface is wave-like. This under surface is higher over the equator than anywhere else, apparently, for the altitude of minimum temperature over the Equator in Africa was found to be twelve miles, whereas, as has been already said, in other places it is only seven miles above the surface. These discoveries seem to throw doubt upon the accepted theories concerning the action of heat.

SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST

Many things are sad, but few are as heart-rending as the misguided efforts of a cold-blooded state administration to prevent the Hon. Mr. Johnson and the Hon. Mr. Jeffries from administering treatment to each other according to the rules prescribed by His Grace the Marquis of Queensberry. An effete civilization is getting its clutches upon the free and hitherto unrestrained West. And the saddest part of it all is that this ungracious interference has come about at a time when the world has been assured that all the virtues and all the things that make life beautiful now form the environment of the gentle creatures, who study out the intricacies of the noble art of fisticuffs. Has not a preacher of the Gospel of Good Will to men attended a seance of the pugilistic sort, and hastened to assure us that it was an exhibition of loving kindness and gentleness, which put such ferocious amusements as tiddewinks and mumblepeg to the blush? Later we were told, and the pictures were given to prove it, that the whole pugilistic atmosphere was redolent of the odor of flowers and quivering with the sound of childish laughter. And the result of all this loveliness was the production of beautiful bodies, albeit they were not of the same color, wherein dwelt, as in a temple, two souls with but a single thought—two souls that scorned to look upon anything meaner than a hundred thousand dollars and an interest in the moving pictures, not to mention such a trifle as a side bet. And now alas, alack and well-a-day! A benighted State Executive has interposed its cruel arm and the patrons of the innocent pastime find themselves forced to seek refuge in that sanctuary known as Reno, to which tradition says divers and several hearts that are sore are daily taken for repairs, and where the mills of divorce grind neither slowly nor exceeding small. Here the gentle pair will be safe from harm and from the hands of the law, and be permitted to do as much harm as possible to each other with their own.

What would the world do without its Renos? Without them it would be well nigh impossible to marry on the instalment plan, or for gentle youths to caress each other to a slumber more or less profound that would last while the umpire counts ten. Reno, lovely city of the mountain, in thy classic spaces and somewhat rarified atmosphere and morals civilization is about to make its last stand. When in the days to come, some traveller from Central Africa shall, like Macaulay's New Zealander, wander through this ruined continent and try to spell out the story of its vanished greatness, thy name will live as Olympus lives in Greek poetry. Around thee will grow up a new mythology, and learned savants will tell that here a temple was erected to Light and Darkness, the twin deities. Here future generations will be told these two spirits struggled for mastery, and there will be much debate over the significance of the fact that the names of both began with a J. There may arise some misguided critic who will say that the real Jays in the case were the people who contributed their shekels to see the fight, but such a suggestion as this will be laughed to scorn by the truly wise, who invariably laugh to scorn any proposition that sounds like common sense. But be this as it may, it appertains to the future. For the present let us lift our glad voices in song to praise the town where misfit couples can easily shuffle off the matrimonial coil and the standards set up by the Marquis of Queensberry are yet regarded as good enough for every day purposes.

An indirect system of electric lighting is likely to come into common use. By it the light will be thrown upon a white ceiling to be reflected downwards. This is an English invention and it is claimed to possess many great advantages over the system of direct lighting.

A man has ascended 5,000 feet in the air in a machine heavier than the air. When we recall that only a year or two ago no one had been able to get a heavier-than-air machine to rise off the ground, it will have to be admitted that the progress of aeronautics has been exceedingly rapid. The aerodrome is only an application of the principle of the kite. It does not fly in the sense in which the term is used in regard to birds.

Lord Grey during his short visit to the Mother Country seems likely to say some things which will occasion a little surprise on the part of his hearers, especially when he talks to them about the feeling of the people here as to the place of Canada in the Empire. His Excellency is a fine champion of things Canadian. It was a lucky day for the Dominion when he was named for the office which he adorns.

Sir Henry Dalziel is making somewhat of an exhibition of himself in proposing a resolution in the House of Commons condemnatory of such utterances as that of Mr. Roosevelt at the Guildhall. That Mr. Roosevelt acted in questionable taste may be admitted, but that Sir Henry is acting with very little discretion is too clear for argument. The Parliament of the United Kingdom is too great a body to concern itself with the criticisms of any private individual.

Replying to our evening contemporary, we may say that the contract with the Canadian Northern did not require the work to be begun within three months of its ratification by the Legislature. But that is not a very important error on its part. What seems to us important is that it seems desirous of conveying the impression that faith has not been kept with the Province by the company. We had supposed that after the election was over and the company was hastening its work as rapidly as possible, our contemporary would have refrained from observations calculated to create the impression that there might be doubt as to the actual construction of the railway. Would it not be just as well to adopt a course in these matters that would not be likely to create an impression unfavorable to Victoria?

WANT NO ORIENTAL LABOR ON SCHOOLS

But Failure to Insist on White Workmen Gives Contractor Chance to Evade Wishes of School Board

The school board will not permit of any part of the work done for the board under contract being performed by Orientals. A special meeting of the board was held yesterday afternoon to consider the case of the contract of E. Sherritt, who was awarded the work of plastering at the Moss street school, now under construction. Mr. Sherritt, taking advantage of the failure of the school architect, J. L. McNeill, to include in the specifications for the work the clause always put in school board contracts that no Orientals shall be engaged, has been engaging Chinese to mix the mortar. When this was brought to the attention of Mr. Sherritt by members of the board he wrote the board pointing out that under the specifications of his contract nothing was said regarding the non-employment of Chinese. If the board desires that white labor only should be used an extra sum of $125 would have to be paid him.

George Jay, chairman of the board, pointed out that in all previous contracts white labor had been specified, but in the case of Mr. Sherritt this restriction had been omitted. It was doubtful if Mr. Sherritt was not within his right in engaging Oriental labor.

Trustee Riddell believed Mr. Sherritt knew what had always been the practice of the board, while Trustee McNeill blamed the architect, whose duty it was to see that the board's wishes had been properly set forth in the specifications. About the only thing the board could do was to permit the Chinese to work or else pay the extra amount demanded, though that amount, he believed was altogether too much.

Claim a Holdup.

Trustees Riddell and McIntosh declared the overcharge was simply a holdup, and claimed there has been delay in other parts of the work.

Mr. Jay and Trustee Riddell were appointed to act with the architect and adjust matters, the architect to be impressed with the fact that no Oriental labor is to be engaged on any contracts let by the board.

NO WIRELESS AT STEWART
Tests Carried Out Show Communication Cannot Be Established With Prince Rupert.

The proposal to establish wireless communication between Stewart and Prince Rupert has been abandoned. Tests were carried out by the Dominion government during the past week and showed that it is impossible to establish a connection and in consequence no station will be erected at Stewart.

The ninth Dominion government station in British Columbia will be erected in the vicinity of Lawn Point, in the Queen Charlotte Island; twelve miles from Queen Charlotte City and over eighty miles distant from the Ikeda station. Construction work on this will start in a short time. In the meantime, the policy of evacuating the plants at the different stations, so as to guard against the possibility of breakdown has been decided upon, and the installation of a duplicate plant is now being carried out on Gonzales Hill.

Emigration of Children
LONDON, June 17.—John Burns, the president of the Local Government Board, in circularizing boards of guardians, points out that emigration affords a sure means of extricating children from pauperism and the influence of evil surroundings.

Strawberry Social

There will be a strawberry social on Wednesday evening, June 22nd, at St. Columba's Church.

Residence Scorched

Damage to the amount of about $300 was done at 445 Oakley street, Monday morning, to the residence occupied by Mr. Rowland Macdonald, 932 Heywood avenue, when fire of an unknown origin damaged the interior of the building. Mr. Macdonald, in saving some of his property, was burned about the head, but not seriously.

Douglas Street Property

Really values on Douglas street have doubled in the last four months. Yesterday Messrs. Currie and Power sold a lot in the Finlayson homestead to a Winnipeg man for $8,000. The lot early in the year could have been purchased for half this sum. During the last few days there has been a considerable inquiry for property along Douglas street.

To Advertise C. N. R.

Mr. Frank T. Bullen, the author, was a visitor yesterday to the offices of the local development league, where he was supplied with a considerable quantity of literature dealing with Vancouver Island and Victoria. He is also being furnished with a number of photographs, which he will use in his illustrated lecture tour on behalf of the Canadian Northern Railway Company.

Photos of scenes in and about Victoria and on the southern half of Vancouver Island will be forwarded to the meeting of the American Library Association to take place at Mackinaw in a fortnight's time. Other island literature of the development league will also be distributed at the meeting in the hope that it may induce the delegates who attend to vote for Victoria as the place where the 1911 convention will be held.

Resumes Operations

The factory of the B. C. Milk Condensing Company, destroyed by fire in December last, has been rebuilt and has resumed operations. New equipment has been installed to the amount of $20,000, and the capacity of the plant increased to over 300 cases per day. The company secures its milk from which it manufactures B. C. Cream, from the territory near the Fraser, and is rapidly extending its scope through putting on its own river steamers to carry milk to the factory. The company is now employing thirty-five people. Mr. L. Chevalier, formerly consulting expert for the Carnation Company, of Washington State, is superintendent of the company.

New Organ Opened

An interesting event, in the inauguration of the new organ at the Centennial Methodist Church, took place on Thursday evening. The instrument just installed was purchased at St. Hyacinthe, Que., at a cost of $4,200. The church was well filled, the choir, 33 strong, being in attendance. Mr. Edward Parsons officiated at the organ, playing, among other selections: Gullman's March in D, the Allegretto from Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise, and the Festive March in D by Smart. The new $12,000 organ for the Metropolitan Methodist Church has arrived from St. Hyacinthe and will be installed during the next few weeks. This instrument is a four-manual one, with 32-foot pipes.

The Police Court

James C. Smith, colored, was convicted of destroying furniture of Miss Clara Ramsay, also colored, living on View street, in the police court yesterday. He was sentenced to six months imprisonment. The couple had been in Mexico and Miss Ramsay returned to Victoria and furnished a house on View street. Smith went there and demanded certain articles which Miss Ramsay turned over to him. Some words followed, and he started to break furniture, and is alleged to have threatened to strangle Miss Ramsay. She ran out of the house and called the police to her assistance, Smith being arrested. He claimed the woman threw furniture at him and damaged it in that manner. Smith was also fined $25 and costs on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Army's Social Work

Major Phillips, of the Salvation Army, who has recently been appointed to the oversight of the Army's Social Work in the west, with headquarters at Vancouver, will conduct the meetings in the Broad Street Citadel on Saturday night and all day Sunday. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Phillips. The Major will find many old friends to welcome him, as he was well known here about thirteen years ago when district officer for British Columbia. Later he was in charge of the Army's food and shelter depot for poor men, which was situated in the Market Building, and only closed when Victoria's prosperity was such that an institution of this kind was not needed. All are invited to attend these special meetings.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will brace up the nerves, banish sick headache, prevent drowsiness and invigorate the whole system. Sold by all druggists.

A strawberry lawn social will be held at the residence of Mrs. S. Williams, Mount Tominie, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Adam's church, on Friday, June 24th. Programme consisting of Victoria and local talent. From 7 to 10.30 p.m. Admission 25c.

Lame shoulder is almost invariably caused by rheumatism of the muscles and yields quickly to the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment is not only prompt and effective, but in no way disagreeable to use. Sold by all druggists.

To Motorists Don't fail to attend the meeting of the Victoria Automobile Owners' and Chauffeurs' association next Tuesday, 8 p.m., at the Broad street hall, 1205 Broad street.

If you are not satisfied after using according to directions two-thirds of a bottle of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, you can have your money back. The tablets cleanse and invigorate the stomach, improve the digestion, regulate the bowels. Give them a trial and get well. Sold by all druggists.

Beware of Ointments For Catarrh

That Contains Mercury as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by E. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by E. J. Cheney & Co.

Sold by Druggists. Price 75c. per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

The Newly Wed

Mission Clocks, oak and mahogany, from $3 to $36
Westminster Chime Clocks, in mahogany and oak, from $30 to $40

For parent or grandparent to child we think a Grandfather's Clock would make an unique present. Scarcely any better suggestion.

Taken to Hospital

Found wandering in an aimless fashion near the outer wharf yesterday morning a young woman, believed to be mentally affected, was taken in charge by the police and placed in St. Joseph's Hospital.

New Johnson Street Structure

A building permit has been issued by the building inspector to the Victoria Building Company for a two storey brick building on Johnson street to cost $5,000, the lower floor to be occupied by stores and the upper floor by rooms. Permits have also been issued to the B. Wilson Company for a packing shed to be erected adjoining the company's premises on Chatham street; to John P. Merriman for a dwelling on Seaview street, to cost $1,500, and to Charles Somerville for a dwelling on Shelbourne street to cost $400.

WATCHMAN ASSAULTED

James White Kicked Almost Into Insensibility and Robbed.

Knocked down and kicked twice with terrific force about the head, James White, for years a night watchman in the downtown section, was brutally handled by a hold-up man shortly after 1 o'clock this morning in the alleyway leading from Yates street to the rear of the Poodle Dog restaurant. The robber secured White's watch, his special constable's badge, and, in fact, overlooked nothing except the police whistle carried by his victim. Running down the alleyway the robber made his escape through the rear of the Maryland restaurant on to Government street before two policemen, summoned by White, who sounded his whistle, could arrive on the scene.

White had tried the front door of Toimle & Stewart's saloon and was on his way to the rear to see that the door there had been fastened. Without warning, someone, of whom he got but a very imperfect description, jumped out from the darkness and throwing the watchman down, kicked him twice on the right side of the head just below the ear. White was partially stunned, but he felt his assailant quickly go through his pockets. The whole incident did not take ten seconds, and when White staggered to his feet and sounded his whistle the hold-up man had disappeared. A search was made in the neighborhood but the robber had made good his escape.

AMUSEMENTS

Maud Adams

It is only necessary to say that Maud Adams, who appeared in "What Every Woman Knows" at the Victoria theatre last night, is a delight, and her support in every way worthy of her.

Pantages Theatre

The matinee this afternoon at 3 o'clock with the admission fee at 10 cents for children will be their last opportunity for visiting the clever juvenile Andersons, who with their parents are presenting the very pleasing comedy played, "Mischievous Bob." This is the most enjoyable offering for children that has been staged here in a long time. Aside from being an especial feature for children the four Andersons please adults as well. Then there are numerous other attractions on the programme, all good. Sham and King, great comedians, are coming next week.

New Grand Theatre

The final performances of the big Grand bill now running are announced for tonight, and the comic military drama, "The Battle of Bunker Hill" will be seen for the last time, with "Devilskin," the famous war comedy horse in the cast. The show has whole lots of humor in it, with the acts of Helen Stuart, the "Folly Vagabond Society" and Rives, the dancer-soubrette, while for genuine singing entertainment, there is Metz & Metz. Miss Moore, in the fifth turn gives a splendid demonstration of the remarkable muscular development women can attain. There is also the regular song with illustrated pictures and the moving picture comedies at the close of the bill.

MAJESTIC THEATRE

Friday and Saturday

"A Case of Identity"—A detective story handled by the wonderful detective Hogarth. The mystery begins when Hogarth receives a call from a foreigner, who, being unable to speak English, starts to write his business and drops to the floor dead before finishing. There is no clue upon the man, save the tailor's mark on his overcoat, but for a mind like Hogarth's that is enough. Finding the tailor, he learns the name of the mysterious stranger. He is mystified when the next day's paper announces that the man whom he saw lying dead on the floor is to sail with his daughter for Europe at noon. Being a man of decision as well as intuition, Hogarth makes a quick dash for the boat, and finds himself a fellow-passenger of the man who is apparently the double of his mysterious caller, and the girl, who is supposed to be his daughter. He soon finds that there is a love story, for one of the deck hands on the liner exchanges notes and signals with the girl, and Hogarth soon learns that the man is her fiancé in disguise. He contrives to enter the stateroom of the girl's supposed father, and there finds evidence that the man is the employer of an unscrupulous prince who intends to force the girl into marriage, and also that the man's power over the girl comes from a forged note purporting to be from her father, of whose death she is ignorant. How Hogarth convinces the girl of the terrible danger she is in, and of his power to save her, and how he confronts the Marquis, and after a desperate struggle succeeds in taking him into custody, makes a thrilling and effective climax to an intensely fascinating story. This is a quality to this picture difficult to define, yet plainly apparent to every one who sees it.

"Three-Fingered Jack"—A heart story in which the love of Three-Fingered Jack for a Salvation Army lassie is the making of him. It is one of those pretty domestic bits which carry a charm that makes them irresistible. Jack is the product of the slums, a goodhearted boy when left alone, but a thief through force of environment. He is loafing in one of the cheap dives in the poor quarter, when a more energetic companion proposes an enterprise of burglary and Jack consents. The robbery is successful, the money being abstracted from the desk by means of pick-pockets, which leave no trace of the crime. The day following, the Army girl visits the scene of the robbery on a collection trip, and through circumstances is accused of the theft. She has seen the imprint of Jack's hand upon the blotter on the table, and when she is permitted to go, she hurried to the dive, taking Jack with the robbery. He admits his guilt, makes confession and restitution, and in response to Lily's plea, the charge is not pressed. Jack is to be given a chance to make a man of himself.

Then there is a 1000 feet Biograph Comedy of incidents. Jake, a young country lout, comes into possession of a ladder, and had some fun getting people up a tree and removing the ladder so they have to stay. This trick he repeats several times, and what he gets when they finally catch him must be seen to be appreciated.

The Galton Research Laboratory has already entered upon spheres of work of very high importance to the progress and happiness of the human race, and is clearly on the road to the establishment of principles likely to admit of many practical applications.

Small Holdings

Great interest is being taken in the details of a scheme for small holdings which the Duke of Bedford has just issued. His Grace owns a vast acreage in Bedfordshire, including the Great Farm, Maulden, near Amptill, which consists of over 448 acres. This farm the duke has decided to cut up into small holdings, the sizes of which will be from ten acres upwards. With each holding he intends giving cow and horse common right and the right of common over twenty-nine acres of pasture land for one horse and one cow, these rights being included in the purchase price. No deposit will be required, and repayments will extend over thirty-five years, the payments being calculated to pay the capital value and 3 per cent. interest on unpaid balances per annum, to be made either on the instalment or annuity system.

The duke has arranged that purchasers can assume all the responsibilities of ownership as from September next and he also undertakes to redeem the land tax prior to the sale and to provide free conveyances, but the land must only be used for agricultural purposes. For the purpose of building houses or homesteads on the holdings, the duke is going to advance up to $2,500 on a ten-acre holding, the money to be repaid in like manner to that of the land. The duke is desirous of benefiting Bedfordshire men, and states that preferences will be given to such. Much satisfaction has been expressed with the scheme, and should it prove successful the duke will very likely open up more of his big farm.

Shipping Trade.

Although there has been a considerable improvement in the shipping trade of late, there are as yet no signs of a "boom." Lord Joicey—and few speak with wider experience—tells the members of the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce that when a rise in freights does take place it is likely to be of very short duration. He admits that the world's business is overburdened, but concurrently, he thinks, the shipbuilder is well able to keep pace with the demand for tonnage, so great is his present power of production. Another point which Lord Joicey takes is that ships are nowadays able to get from one port to another with such facility that any proposed rise in freights is prevented. On the other hand, the recent rise in Eastern freights, due to the demand for tonnage for the big export trade in soy beans which has suddenly grown up in Manchuria, is an example of the modern incident which gives cheerfulness to the freight market.

New Labor Exchanges

It is evident that the newly-formed labor exchanges in England are being extensively used, both by employers and employees; and this being the case, they have already justified their inauguration. Some trade unions have thought that the exchanges might be the means of employers getting labor at a lesser rate, but there is no evidence of this at present. During April 116,323 persons applied for work at the ninety-eight established labor exchanges. Of these 83,422 were men, 11,613 boys, 17,402 women, and 4,086 girls. The above figures do not include renewals, but do include re-applications by persons whose registration had elapsed. The number of vacancies filled was 23,558, and when it is remembered that the previous month 20,395 other vacancies were filled, the usefulness of the exchanges is evident.

PRODUCTION OF LEAD

Output of Canadian Mines Last Year Stated to Be Largest for Some Time.

OTTAWA, June 17.—That the output of Canadian lead mines in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1910, was the largest for several years is indicated by the return of bounties paid by the government for that period.

The bounty, which amounts to $15 per ton, is allowed upon the lead ore delivered at Canadian smelters for treatment. It was paid during 1910 upon a production of 45,467,545 pounds, total $340,542. The bounty paid in 1909 was $307,432, upon 42,593,287 pounds of ore.

For many years the output of the Kootenay mines in British Columbia, whence practically all the lead produced in Canada comes, was shipped to smelters on the American side, thus in 1901 there were exported to the United States 552,613 pounds of ore valued at $2,276,630, out of a total export that year of 65,602,332 pounds, valued at $2,517,084. The bounty system has resulted in the ore being smelted in Canada and to a large extent used in this country in the manufacture of white lead and other products.

The total export of lead ore in 1909 amounted to but 12,022,364 pounds, valued at $380,381. To the United States the export fell off to the insignificant quantity of 171,837 pounds, worth $5,422. The bounty is paid upon sliding scale, based on the price of lead in London. It is 75 cents per hundred pounds until the London price exceeds £14 10s. sterling. Should the price in London reach £18 the Canadian bounty would cease altogether. But that is not likely to happen. London quotations have never exceeded £14 10s. for a long time.

In Woman's Realm

Here and There

An Ontario farmer's wife, Mrs. Gertrude Lloyd-Jones, has written an interesting article in the National Review on the subject of farm labor. Her point of view is that of the educated Englishman, who has become thoroughly familiar with farm life. She has an appreciation of its difficulties impossible to a Canadian born and bred. The article is written for the purpose of discouraging the immigration of public school boys in which such a keen interest is being taken by Dr. Grey, a number of the schoolmasters and many English gentlemen.

Mrs. Lloyd-Jones shows that there are many things in the training of the average public school boy, which contribute to make him very unfit for the life lived on the Canadian farm. As a little child he is dependent on his nurse and governess, while a Canadian farmer's son must, almost from babyhood look after himself. His life at school while it gives him physical training does not, this farmer's wife declares, strengthen and develop the muscles he will need in his farm work. What is more important, the article indicates that the whole bringing up of the boy, the niceties of life which he is compelled to observe, his dependence on others for personal service and above all, the feeling of superiority which is bred in him, make him utterly unfitted for the position of a farm servant. Emphasis is laid on the want of facilities for bathing, the lack of room and the coarseness of the food used in the ordinary farmer's house. The ignorance, the slovenliness and the want of adaptability of the average English lad are unparagonably criticised.

The article will serve a very useful purpose if it will keep English parents from sending to Canadian farms those boys who are unfitted for any employment suited to their position at home. It is better that boys should have, even an exaggerated idea of the difficulties to be faced and the hardships to be borne, than that they should engage themselves to do work which they do not know and cannot learn.

But when all this is said, it yet remains true that strong, healthy, well-educated boys can find on the land in Canada room to work. It would seem that Mrs. Lloyd-Jones is herself a proof that there are among English people the material of which good farmers are made. She in her nine years of Canadian life, has learned to fulfill the duties of a farmer's wife. English mothers, by the way, must not think that the twins of this Canadian woman are fair samples of the six-year-old boys on Canadian farms. Mothers here do not expect, or allow, as a rule, such babies to milk cows or undertake hard work of any kind. They do learn many things and perform many tasks, but these are such as are natural to them, and suited to their years. No little children are so free and happy as those who grow up on a farm. It is too often otherwise with older boys and girls, but not necessarily so. Canada farmers know that a boy fresh from school, even without experience or training, if he has a fair share of mother wit and a willingness to learn may, under wise direction, make a most useful farm hand. It is to be feared that very often the busy farmer has neither the time, the inclination nor the ability to teach an ignorant lad what he ought to know. The implements, the operations and the animals of the farm have been familiar to him from earliest childhood. He cannot understand the position of the boy who has spent his life in a school, and whose only active occupations have been school games. But, after all, these public school men have done great work for the empire in many fields, and it is not likely that, as landowners and landworkers they will fall. It is here that the value of such a plan as Dr. Grey's should be valuable. These boys must be taught to farm, and for that the training at the school he has established in Alberta should be valuable. The boys who receive their initiation on Bradford ranch should not be nuisances when they undertake to learn their business from the Alberta farmers. The success or failure of Dr. Grey's experiment will be awaited with interest in other provinces. It is a step towards the industrial training which is now so much talked of.

Why do people speak as if women who are at work in the outside world were there from choice? Wherever there is work to be done the workers must go. At the beginning of last century every home was a workshop, where many trades were pursued. Now most of these occupations are carried on on a large scale in cities. The girls have followed the work. But this is not all. In these new countries, at least, the work of development calls the men from desk and office, even from the professions themselves, and women take their places. Nowhere is this so marked as in the field of education. Half a century ago all the boys and many of the girls were taught by men. Now women, in America teach, not only boys and girls, but often men and women. There are many who lament this. But surely women are not to blame because they are doing, as best they may, the duty which men have abandoned. Sixty years ago when work was cared for by wives, daughters and mothers. Now nursing is a skilled art, and it is performed altogether by women. No one questions their fitness, or desires to rob them of their occupation. But hospitals have taken the place of the home when there is serious illness. There are other callings that have brought women into the world of workers. The telephone and the typewriter employ armies of girls, whose fitness for the work would seem to have been learned by instinct. It is a longer time since the introduction of machinery filled the factories with women. But there is no need to go on. The world has grown too busy to place on any large part of the population the burden of idleness. Women who work have no need to trouble about anything save to make themselves as proficient as possible in their callings. If there were not a place for them they would not be employed. The world's work must go on, and the woman who does her share of it honestly is worthy of respect of others, and what is more important, of her own self-respect.

There have been many newspaper paragraphs about Miss Dove, the English lady who very nearly became the first mayor of an English town. But not so many know that this lady represents the best in the modern movement among women. When Miss Dove was a young girl it was fashionable for a woman to faint, and strong bodies and robust women were looked upon as a sign of vulgarity by many Englishwomen. She taught her younger brothers and sisters and seems to have discovered in that hardest of all teaching, the need of special training and fuller knowledge. She was the first to enter on the rolls of the training college of Gilton, the great woman's school at Oxford. After graduating she took a position as science mistress of Cheltenham college. But Miss Dove had an ideal of what a girl's school should be. She bought Lord Carrington's mansion at Wycombe, and opened a school with about forty girls. Here she introduced hockey, lacrosse and other games for girls, and made them dress so that their muscles could move freely. Now, the need and benefit of vigorous exercise is admitted by all principals of schools for girls. It was different when Wycombe Abbey school was first opened. Still it became very popular, and when Miss Wycombe, now a white-haired lady, resigned a few days since, there were two hundred and forty pupils in the school. But this successful schoolmistress found time to interest herself in the doing of her fellow citizens. Some years ago she was elected town councillor of the little city, and a year and a half ago was asked to stand for mayor. She was not, however, successful, although she is held in high esteem, not only by her fellow citizens, but by her old pupils and their parents.

Dr. Garrett Anderson, mayor of Aldborough, in Suffolk, is the first and far the only lady having held this office in England. The woman who would aspire to fill the mayor's chair in a Canadian city would indeed need to be strong-minded.

Prof. Unna, Hamburg, Germany, European authority on skin diseases, says that dandruff is as contagious as any other malevolent disease, and that one common source of the spread of dandruff by different persons, is the use of the same hair brush by different persons. The way to avoid catching dandruff or any other disease from another's brush, is to insist on the use of Newbro's Herpicide. It not only kills the dandruff germ, but it is also an antiseptic that will prevent the catching of any disease whatever through contagion of another's brush. Sold by leading druggists. Sent 10c. LETTERS TO EDITOR

Machinists State Case

Sir:—With regard to the strike at present existing among the machinists of Victoria, we would ask to lay the facts of the case before the public.

There is no disputing the fact that eight hours constitutes an ideal working day, and in addition to this fact it must be remembered that there are a great many machinists out of employment throughout the country, and only by shortening the working day—thus requiring more men to do the same amount of work—can work be secured for the unemployed.

If we were state, as defining the position of the machinists of this city, that, as there is a perfect organization of the machinists of the Pacific Coast, extending from Los Angeles to Victoria, the demand made by the organization for an eight-hour day and a wage at the rate of four cents per hour, which represents $3.60 per day, would be extremely moderate, in view of the general increased cost of living and the largely augmented wages paid in all other trades. San Francisco promptly complied with the demand, and as that city employs at least fifty per cent. of the machinists on the coast, we believe the prospects for a complete success are very bright.

In Victoria the proposed agreement was presented to the different employers, and an answer requested. In the event the employers expressed themselves as unwilling to discuss any part with the employers. An answer came refusing to concede anything, and a committee of machinists, attempting to interview the management, were refused an audience. No course remained but to strike.

With regard to the number of men on strike in this place, there appeared in the Colonist of the 17th instant a statement that was, to say the least, misleading. There are sixty men on strike at present in Victoria. Of these, there are fifteen out at the B. C. Marine railway; twenty-two out at Victoria Machinery depot; four at Marine Iron works; six out at Ramsays; five at Hifers, and two at Hutchinson Bros., the rest being out of work at the time of striking. There are only about three men working on the shops, besides the various foremen. There is one shop in the city, Armstrong under union conditions, viz., Strong Bros., of 131 Kingston street, who have signed the proposed agreement.

MARAMA TO BE FITTED WITH WIRELESS

Contract Made for Installation of Apparatus on Board the Canadian-Australian Liner

When the Canadian-Australian liner Marama reaches here on June 28th arrangements will be made to equip the vessel with wireless telegraphic apparatus. Contracts were closed with the United Wireless Telegraph Company yesterday for the installation of the instruments will be of five-kilowatt capacity with a one-kilowatt auxiliary set operated by storage batteries. This will give the vessel a range of 3,000 to 4,000 miles at night and 500 to 1,000 miles during the day time.

With the storage battery outfit, the ship will never be in danger of being cut off from communication by reason of the main power plant becoming disabled. In addition to the storage batteries, the vessel will be fitted with a new patented spark blower, designed especially for long distance work. It was this device that enabled the Pacific Mail steamship Korea to break all records for long distance transmission.

The Makura of the Canadian-Australian line is the only vessel of this service now equipped with wireless.

WINNING STREAK HAS BAD BREAK

Victoria Suffers Dismal Defeat in First Engagement With Seattle Spirits — Peden, Twirler, Off Color

For every disaster there must be a scapegoat. To account for last evening's baseball burlesque, in which Victoria was defeated by the Spirits to the tune of 16 to 5 runs, "Bob" Peden must be singled out as the individual most responsible. There is no doubt that "Bob" will remember yesterday as Black Friday, for many a day to come. He was off color in a superlative degree. Nothing seemed to go right. His out curves shot in and vice versa and when he attempted to field the simplest brand of a grounder or to make the easiest connection with bases it was painful, positively nauseating, the way he fell down. But there—everybody has a day sometimes when things seem topsy turvy and even the most hard hearted will forgive "Bob" this break in the light of past performances. But the pitcher's weakness doesn't tell the whole story. It's the only big scapegoat but there were a number of minor auxiliaries so to speak. For instance Murrah, at second, contributed to the error list substantially. Moulton, the crack first baseman, besmirched a record hitherto practically untarnished. Even Manager Wattalet once misjudged a fly and helped the merry game along. To specify when Moore, Brown, and "Pete" McQuade are placed to one side none of the others were entirely free from blame. Then again it is but fair to them to note that with a shaky twirler it is hard to keep a team working fast and sure. From the clang of the bell the avalanche began to envelope the locals. Five runs were notched up against them. The Spirits hit with good will. It seemed as though they would never let up hammering the poor inoffensive leather. It bounded first in one direction and then the other while the fans set up a merry roar and when Wattalet and his colts finally came in gave them the "ha ha." Victoria's Opportunity. Even at that it didn't look as though Victoria was going to be absolutely outclassed. Only one run was added to the visitors total in the second and in Victoria's turn there was some hitting. In fact the home had had so little difficulty in distinguishing between the atmosphere and the ball that the hopes of the fans revived. Then came the initial run, "Pete" McQuade touching the home plate. The third brought another for the Spirits—they were scoring with monotonous and discouraging regularity—but now came a period when the Canadians star shone with some brilliancy. Three men found their way about the diamond. To tell the whole story of this, the game's only bright spot from a strictly local standpoint would require more space than is available. Necessity demands that it be curtailed although the inclination to "spread" on the few incidents that rebound to the locals credit is well-nigh irresistible. Moore was the leader. He hit. "Pete" contributed one of his well placed daisy cutters. McDermald came through likewise and Moore was making the acquaintance of the goal. "Lofty" Robertson—not to be outdone—found the ball for a smash that gave "Pete" his opportunity and he slid from third. And then came the crowning triumph—Peden's two-bagger. Yes "Bob" rose to the occasion in a desperate effort to save his own game. The ball should have been gathered up by the short stop but that "doesn't" matter. It wasn't and McDermald scored. Robertson was caught stealing and Wattalet rang down the curtain with a fly. Really it is too painful a task to recite the particulars of the sixth and seventh. It had better be left a tale untold. The Spirits began finding "Bob" and battering his delivery unmercifully. Four runs went up in the first and a similar number in the second. Matters were made worse by Peden's uncertain fielding and by the shaky support he received. As a matter of fact, however, there never was a case where it so plainly was "up to" one man, or where that one man was so lamentably wanting: The scores follow: Spirits.

While on the grouch it might be mentioned that press stand requires a little fixing. It is possible to enter it only from one side. Surely it wouldn't be difficult to arrange that these who are constantly using it can get in and out without a contortionist stunt. "Pete" McQuade is one of the most willing players of the home team. He puts his whole heart into the game, covering every time, and even hitting with as much judgment as the most of them. Since Murrah sent out that home run his whole idea appears to be sending the ball into the Smith Hill reservoir. If he cut out that vicious swinging and got down to sensible hitting there might be more and better results. Really that fellow McDermald can pick out what appear to be the most impossible benders. He takes them at almost any angle and usually is lucky. Kerry, catcher for the Spirits, who was seen wearing an Eller uniform the last time here, was on deck again last night. He wasn't as good in base throwing as usual. Like the others he had a touch of the nerves, doubtless. Now "Bob" don't feel sore over anything that has been said about last night's game. It is admitted that you can pitch and that, usually, you aren't such a mutt at fielding. Just an off day that was all. Another time it will be a different story.

GARRISON C. C. DEFEAT NANAIMO
Soldiers Top Their Opponents Score by 72 Runs in Single Innings Match at Work Point Grounds
In yesterday's cricket match between the Garrison and Nanaimo elevens on the Work Point grounds the former team was successful by a score of 120 to 48 on the first inning. The visitors went to bat at the start. They found the bowling which they were called on to face rather puzzling, and wickets fell fast, the side being retired for the somewhat poor total of forty-eight. There was no exceptionally weak play, apart from the steady effectiveness of the bowlers. The fielding was thorough. When the soldiers came to bat they began much better. Some first-class stands were made. Still, no individual went for into double figures, and none succeeded in even approaching the coveted century. The total was 120. In their second innings Nanaimo improved. Seventy-eight runs were scored for eight wickets. Stumps then were drawn. VICTORIA vs. NANAIMO

The Victoria Cricket club will engage in an all-day match against the Nanaimo eleven at the Royal Jubilee campus today, the game commencing at 10:30 a. m. The local club has picked a strong team as follows: L. S. V. York, captain; J. W. D. York, F. J. Marshall, W. P. Gooch, W. Rant, W. P. Williams, F. McGane, Hon. Dr. Young, W. P. Irving, J. Rae and W. G. Sandy.

NOTES

Manager Wattalet is extending a hearty invitation to the ladies of Victoria to attend Friday evening matches. They appreciate this consideration, but, nevertheless, have a complaint to make. The grand stand seats are crusted with the dust and dirt of several seasons. When they were last swept it would be hard to say. There is no doubt that this hint will be sufficient to induce the management to take the necessary steps to improve the accommodation.

INTERNATIONAL BOWLING TOURNEY

Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle Clubs May Engage in Championship Matches—Play for Local Trophies

Arrangements are underway for an international bowling tournament in Victoria. The initiative in this project has been assumed by the Beacon Hill club. The proposal is to interest the Victoria club, that is the bowlers who will play on the new quarters obtained by the tennis association opposite the Jubilee hospital, the Vancouver enthusiasts and to induce some representatives to come from Seattle. It is in a nebulous state as yet but the first steps have been taken and something definite is expected within the next couple of weeks.

Meanwhile the game is flourishing on the Beacon Hill greens. This afternoon there will be in progress the concluding matches of the first round of the tournament for a number of trophies presented by officials. It is likely that some of the second round games will be played as well.

Entries are now open for the club championship singles and already the regular rinks which will compete for the title and a silver cup have been selected. They are as follows:

DUNCANS MECCA FOR THE FANCIERS

Dog and Cat Show in Progress Today and Victoria Strongly Represented—Local Athletes in Races

Victoria sportsmen are deeply interested in two attractions which are taking place in Duncan today. There is being held a dog, cat and poultry show, and, as an aside, a field meet. In the former are entered several strings of local blue-blooded canine, a number of aristocratic cats, and, in the latter, will compete several of this city's crack athletes.

The dog and cat show is one of the most ambitious that has ever been conducted in the thriving community mid-way between Victoria and Nanaimo, which is perhaps more aptly described as the gateway to the Cowichan river and lake, the finest fishing waters of the Island. Several thousand dollars are being given away in prizes. Practically every class known to the doggy man is represented. Victoria's contribution consists principally of setters, pointers, terriers and spaniels. Their owners are confident of carrying off a goodly portion of the awards.

In the field meet, from this city will be Brook Vale, the short distance man of the V.M.C.A., who has won for himself quite a reputation in the 100 and 220 yard runs; Charlie Brown, the well-known five miles of Victoria West; W. Day, the distance runner of the Victoria High School; C. H. Johnson, of the V.M.C.A., and J. P. Sweeney, the J.B.A.A. mile runner. The latter will have something of a task on his hands to take the premier place, for he will find opposing him "Slim" Nelson, who once held the championship of Manitoba and last year for the measure of Fred Elkins, Vancouver's speedy boy. This promises to be an interesting event.

JEFFRIES IS NOW READY FOR FIGHT

Expert Declares That Big Fellow Is In Shape for Championship Battle—Johnson Training on Chicken

JEFFRIES' TRAINING CAMP, ROWARDENNAN, June 16—What the name means nobody seems to know—its beginning to take on a metropolitan air. Just at the present time this summer resort, among the redwoods and the madrones of the Santa Cruz Mountains is the Mecca for the sporting men of the country, and these with the price and the time are either here or headed this way, with every prospect that in the next week the adjacent village of Ben Lomond will be in trouble caring for the overflow.

Of course there is only one real attraction in the place—Jim Jeffries. When the California grizzly elects to go fishing Rowardennan is the quietest place in a radius of fifty miles. It is only when Jeffries works that the settlement wakes up and takes notice, and as there is every prospect that from now on the training will consist of light boxing and long tramps on the road, sensations will be few and far between.

Jeff Suits Himself

Sporting men the country over take it for granted that Johnson's condition will be perfect when he hops through the ropes three weeks hence, but there has been an unlimited amount of speculation as to the physical fitness of the white man. Those who have read in the papers that Jeffries' condition is thoroughly satisfactory to himself and those about him insist on seeing for themselves. As Jeff works intermittently at this stage of his training, the sight of the former champion at his glove play often costs a two-day stay.

"Why should these people roar about my training?" Jeff asked. "Who's going to fight this man Johnson? I am more interested than anyone else can be in getting in perfect condition, and I am working out my own ideas to suit myself. I've quit trying to please people. The other day I got up early and worked in the gym for three hours, and a man who got out of bed at 10 o'clock dropped in just as I was finishing up and let an awful roar out of him. 'What is that all?' he asked. 'Ain't you going to do any more work this morning?' I'm going to suit myself from now on, and I wouldn't ask to be any better on the Fourth than I am at the present time."

Johnson and Chickens

Writing in the San Francisco Examiner, W. W. Naughton, the sporting editor, says:

The news that Jack Johnson covers from eight to twelve miles a day on the road is commonplace.

The news that the same Jack Johnson devours from eight to twelve chickens a day is crisp and startling. And it is true.

One of the features of Johnson's beach quarters is the poultry yard. In a well protected enclosure over 100 feathered bipeds are impounded. They live in a state of terror. Each day sees several of their number yanked forth by the cook's big fist. The survivors hear agonizing squawks, which cease when the keen-edged as descends with a clicking sound. The whitewashed walls of the death chamber are sprinkled as though by a red rain and to those who are waiting their turn the world has narrowed. On one side of them is a kitchen range, on the other a huddle of slaughtered fowls.

Johnson's partiality for chickens while training is in defiance of the ancient ethics of the ring. Old-time fighters believed in blood-rare steaks. Johnson says such fodder is too heavy. He justifies his passion for poultry with the argument that he has worked his way to the championship on a diet of chicken.

Old prints depict Alexander the Great riding rough shod to victory over a roadway composed of the corpses of human beings slain in battle. Change the human beings to chickens and Alexander for Johnson, and another world's conqueror is depicted in his true colors.

Jeff Ready Now

Mr. Naughton couches his opinion of Jeffries in the following:

"The writer believes that the fight Jim Jeffries is to show us on the Fourth would not be influenced one whit if he did not don a boxing glove during the balance of his training period. He is as clean as a whistle and he has grown swarthy through being much in the sun and air. His pipes are clear and his eyes have the right kind of glint. To me it seems as though he might whip the trout streams and climb the mountains for the time that is left him and land in the ring feeling like breaking times."

One thing is notable. New arrivals in camp who have had their ideas of Jeffries added through reading confusing accounts of his condition are genuinely surprised when they set eyes on him. 'You don't look a bit like the pictures published of you in the east,' said one tourist to Jeffries. "This is 'passing the buck' to the camera men with a vengeance, but the truth remains that all the pictures of Jeffries taken in recent months make him look much older than he looks in the flesh. It seems to be a case of the photographic apparatus being over-frank in the matter of portraying wrinkles and hard lines which are not in evidence when one gazes into Jeffries' sunburned face."

"I FEEL IT MY DUTY

To Give You a Statement In Regard To

'FRUIT-A-TIVES'"

Hardwicke, Miramichi, N. B., Jan. 17, 1910.

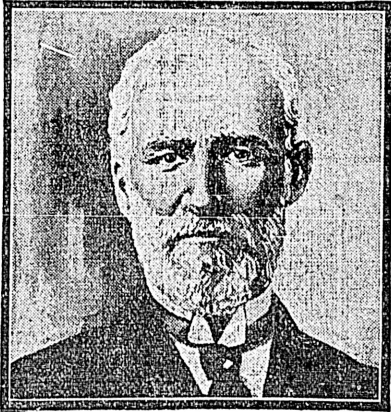

"I feel it my duty to give to you and the world an unsolicited statement in respect to the wonderful cure I received by taking 'Fruit-a-tives.' Chronic Constipation was the complaint I suffered with for years. My general health was miserable as a result of this disease, and I became depressed and alarmed. I was treated by physicians without the slightest permanent benefit, and I tried all kinds of pills and tablets but nothing did me any good.

I saw the strong testimonial in favor of 'Fruit-a-tives' by New Brunswick's 'Grand Old Man,' the Hon. John Costigan, and I knew that anything he stated was honest and true and given only to help his fellow-men. I tried 'Fruit-a-tives' and the effects were most marvelous, and now I am entirely well from all my Chronic Constipation that I suffered from for so many years. My general health is once more excellent and I cannot say too much to express my thanks for the great benefits derived from taking 'Fruit-a-tives.'"

A. G. WILLISTON.

"Fruit-a-tives" is not gotten up by druggists or expert chemists—who know nothing about disease and the needs of the human body—but is the scientific discovery of a well known physician, and is the only medicine in the world made of fruit juices.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa.

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear yourself out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort.

Here is a stove that gives no outside heat. All its heat is concentrated at the burners. An intense blue flame (hotter than either white or red) is thrown upwards but not around. All the heat is utilized in cooking—none in outside heating.

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat—no smell—no smoke.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

The Imperial Oil Company, Limited.

Why? Because The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is scientifically and practically perfect. You cannot use too much wick—it is automatically controlled. You get the maximum heat—no smoke. The burner is simple. One wipe with a cloth cleans it—consequently there is no smell.

The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is wonderful for year-round use, but especially in summer. Its heat operates upward to pan, pot, or kettle, but not beyond or around. It is useless for heating a room.

It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot. It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

Every dealer everywhere; if not at yours, write for Descriptive Circular to the nearest agency of the

FIGHT MATTERS COMPLICATED

Promoter Rickard Undecided As Between Nevada Cities—Strenuous Time Over Langford-Kaufmann Bout

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17—Despite the fact that Tex Rickard positively stated early today that the Johnson-Jeffries fight would be held in Goldfield, Nev., the sporting world is unconvinced. There is a strong suspicion that Reno will be the battle ground.

Rickard's announcement was made this morning on receipt of a telegram from Maurice Sullivan, a merchant of Goldfield. It contained an offer of $120,000 for the fight, and Rickard, without a moment's hesitation, declared for Goldfield. The promoter, however, immediately qualified his decision with the phrase: "If no higher bid is received from a Nevada town." No sooner had word of Rickard's action reached Nevada than the wires were burdened with messages of protest and entreaty from Reno and Ely. While few of these have been made public, it is certain that strong guarantees back the request that the fight be taken to Reno or Ely. So determined was the opposition to Goldfield by the older Nevada towns that the promoter in the afternoon informed urgent petitioners in Reno and Ely that he would listen to what they had to say on Sunday night in Reno. This notice was conveyed to Goldfield. Committees from each of the three Nevada towns will be at Reno on Sunday when Rickard arrives from San Francisco.

Rickard said tonight that nothing new had arisen to alter his plans since he arranged for the Reno conference. He spent a busy day reading and answering telegrams, not forgetting to keep a wary eye on the progress of the controversy between Governor Gillett and Promoter Louis Blot over the Langford-Kaufmann fight. On the outcome of that dispute which will be settled before his departure for Reno, the future of Rickard's big show rests. In view of Governor Gillett's avowed determination to stop all prize fighting in California it is certain that a Nevada town will be named as the scene of the Johnson-Jeffries fight, probably Reno, despite Rickard's statement to the contrary.

Today's Contest

"I still have an ace in the hole when Langford and Kaufmann appear tomorrow in the ring. Sitting in the same box with District Attorney Flickert and Chief of Police Martin will be Adjutant General J. B. Lauck, commander of the State Militia of California. I have the positive assurance that they—Flickert and Martin—will not permit a single round to be fought. Their promises were given to me personally. I believe and expect they will be kept. The doom of prize fighting in California has been sounded." This statement made tonight by Governor Gillett epitomizes the latest situation of the prize fight.

Louis Blot, the promoter of the fight, is in insurrection against California's chief executive, openly defying the governor, who had ordered out two companies of militia to prevent the "ring contest" if the city officials refused to act. Blot declared he would hold the Kaufmann-Langford affair tomorrow evening though an army were called on to block proceedings.

Rumors were afloat tonight that the governor had misunderstood the declaration of the city officers, and that now from the pledges given him, the chief of police does not intend to call off the fight unless he feels it has gone beyond the bounds of the elastic definition of a boxing bout, and develops into a genuine prize fight. Ostensibly Blot stands alone, but until late today he had at least the passive support of the district attorney and of the court. At the eleventh hour District Attorney Flickert and Chief of Police Martin told Attorney-General Webb that they would prevent the fight.

Acting on the assurance, Governor Gillett held up his order calling out the state troops. Still obstinate, Blot persisted that the fight would be held as scheduled, and unless he retracts from his position the outcome of his rebellion will not be determined until tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, Pacific time, when the fighters are scheduled to come together.

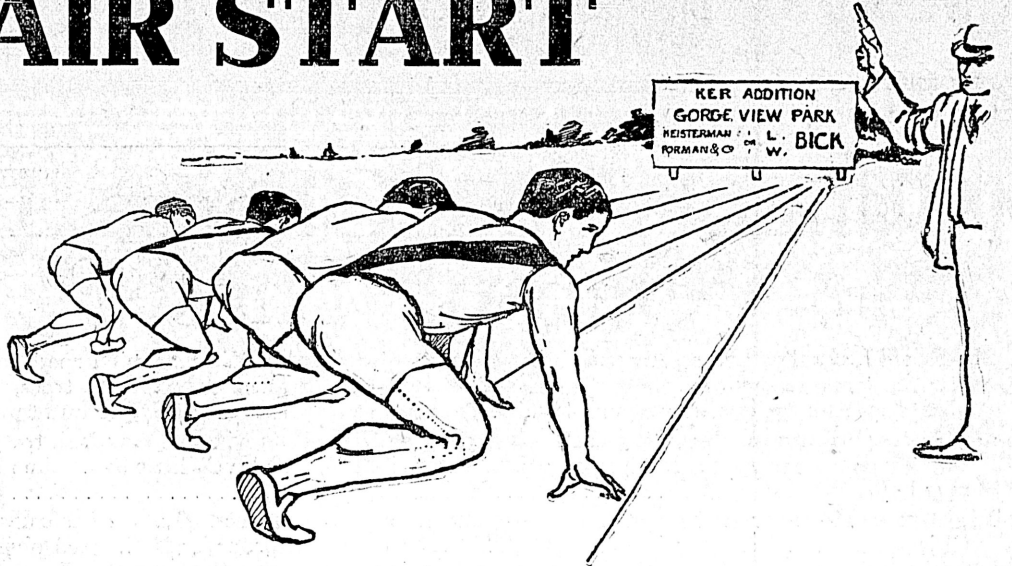

Like Rebellion

For a time today it appeared as though San Francisco would openly rebel against California. District Attorney Flickert persisted in his contention that there was nothing in the laws of California that could be construed as inhibiting either the Langford-Kaufmann or the Jeffries-Johnson contest, but the pressure brought to bear on the city officers induced Flickert to withdraw from his position, and assurance was given by Chief of Police Martin that the principals would not be permitted to enter the ring tomorrow.

One of the events of the day was the denial of a petition made Attorney-General Webb to Superior Judge Van Nostrand for an injunction, restraining Kaufmann and Langford from fighting, not on the grounds that it was the intention of Promoter Blot to hold a prize fight, but because the "contest would be a public nuisance."

Judge Van Nostrand held that the injunction could not be granted, as the defendants had not been allowed sufficient time to present their case, that the issuance of an injunction would be in effect an adjudication of the matter, and that if the breach of the peace or the law contemplated in the complaint should take place, the police officers would deal with the matter.

Following the court's decision, Governor Gillette directed Attorney-General Webb to make a final effort to persuade the city officers to aid the state in preventing the fight. A conference between the Attorney-General and the District Attorney brought forth the unexpected announcement that the District Attorney and Chief of Police together would guarantee that tomorrow's fight would not be permitted.

While en route to the Oakland station to board a train for Sacramento, the Governor delivered his parting ultimatum as follows: "This means the end of prize fighting in this state, and by this state I mean Los Angeles as well as San Francisco. The two fights scheduled for the southern city will not be held. I have instructed the proper authorities there to stop them. It is not a pleasant thing, when you are pleading for the biggest thing California has planned to have this fight thrown into your face continually. That was my experience in the east while seeking national aid for the Panama-Pacific exposition. Pressure was brought to bear on me from millions of people scattered all over the country, and this alone was reason enough for my interference.

"I am not worrying very much about the big fight. I am concentrating my attention on preventing the Kaufmann and Langford fight. I am satisfied that the promoters of the big fight have already decided to move their match from this state. That is all I ask of them."

HOW JAPAN'S TRADE IS GROWING

Publisher of Far Eastern Review Arrives Here and Tells of Commercial War for Manchuria's Trade

"There is no question of the existence of the so-called open door; but there is a grave question as to whether after passing the door, the alien intruder is able, under present conditions, successfully to compete with the doorkeeper."

Thus George Bronson, Rea, publisher of the Far Eastern Review of Manila, who arrived in Victoria yesterday morning by the steamer Montegale after a tour of Manchuria, summed up the long-voiced "open-door" question in Manchuria, where many nations strive for trade with Japan, as a result of the Russo-Japanese war, in the most favored position.

"Since the termination of the late war foreign opinion has accepted the theory that unfair tactics and discrimination are the foundation of Japan's commercial success in Manchuria," said Mr. Rea. "The average European has refused to believe Japan could secure control of the Manchurian trade, unless underhand methods were employed, and, as a result, trilling commercial incidents have been unduly magnified and complaints to their consular and commercial bodies from Europeans based thereon have rapidly followed each other. Insinuations and accusations have poured in from foreign merchants against the operation of methods employed to secure control of the market."

"But despite the bitter criticisms, Japanese trade has steadily advanced and their goods have displaced the old familiar 'chops.' Within two years after the termination of hostilities, Japan controlled the commercial situation, and unsuccessful foreign merchants have charged discrimination and unfair methods to account for her success. At the root of the trouble was the South Manchuria railway, and on its operation and administration fell the burden of certain. It was accused of car discrimination, secret rebates to favored Japanese firms, incivility and harshness to the traveller, espionage of their movements, discrimination against Newchwang in favor of its own terminal at Dalren, flooding Manchuria with Japanese products through the commissary stores of the army and railway, on which no duties levied, smuggling across the border, angling the exchange through the Yokohama Specie Bank, and so on through a long list of similar practices, all tending to advance Japanese interests to the detriment of the foreigner. In fact, if any charge in the code of questionable commercial tactics has been overlooked, we fail to remember it. These accusations soon found echo in resolutions of boards of trade and chamber reports, and no press commented freely on them to Japan's disadvantage. American cotton goods, which formerly controlled the Manchurian market owing to their peculiar adaptation to the requirements of the trade, were displaced by the cheaper and lighter fabrics of Japanese make. Ergo, the wily Nipponese could not possibly be playing the game according to Hoyle. Before the war, the demand for American cotton goods in Manchuria alone reached an extent of $3,000,000 annually, or a practical control of the entire market. In a short time after the war, the situation was reversed, and Japan supplied $2,000,000 of the demand. As an American writer recently explained:

There is no question of the existence of the so-called open door; but there is a grave question as to whether after passing the door, the alien intruder is able, under present conditions, successfully to compete with the doorkeeper.

Hurts India

"To a large extent this reflects American opinion, and similar arguments are advanced by British interests, although the latter are more pointed and bitter, owing to the heavy inroads of Japanese cotton goods into the India market, displacing the products of native and Lancashire looms. British trade has suffered most from the paternal policy of the Japanese government not only in the piece goods export, but in steamship traffic and other lines, and a natural revulsion of sentiment has resulted in yearly balance sheets show decreasing profits. From keen admiration—one might almost be tempted to say adulation—characterizing the attitude of the British in the Far East towards their victorious allies, at the time of the war, the feeling has altered to one of deep distrust and resentment. The Home Government is accused of sacrificing British interests in China to maintain the alliance and so to the clamor of the unsuccessful American piece goods firms is added the keen criticism of British interests. Japan has received the benefit of the amnesty in a vigorous attack on her policy in Manchuria. But Japan naturally resents the charges of unfairness, and, after a fashion, has attempted to answer her critics.

"But it would appear the Japanese themselves have ignored the true economic causes underlying their success, and confined their defense in refuting the charges in an academic manner. Despite the many insinuations that an active governmental press bureau exists in Japan, we have failed to record any evidence of its activity on this issue. In fact, Japanese publicists have apparently failed to grasp the situation, and in defending their position have followed the lines of argument advanced by their commercial opponents.

"I do not attempt to assert that Japan's commercial policy in Manchuria is free from criticism, nor propose to defend her political squabbles with China, but, after a careful study of the situation, I am of the opinion that all the charges and insinuations against the South Manchuria Railway Company fall far short of the mark in explaining the loss of the Manchuria market for American and European products. As a result of several trips to Manchuria, I hold firmly to the belief that the present situation is largely the inevitable sequel to the natural operation of the laws of supply and demand, in which the railway has simply filled its role as a public carrier, and, granting all the charges of discrimination and unfair tactics, the result would be the same.

"It is a self-evident law of commerce that the country consuming the major portion of the exports of another country holds the most advantageous position in supplying its necessary imports. The operation of this fundamental economic law is the basis of Japan's success in Manchuria. For years Japan has been the largest consumer of Manchuria's principal export of beans and bean cake. The bean cake was an absolute necessity to the Japanese farmer to fertilize his worn out fields. As time passes this demand will be more acute and falling, the cheaper bean cake, with its high percentage of nitrogen, fertilizing material must be secured.

Before Manchurian railways were constructed and Newchwang was the only treaty port, the larger British firms established there controlled the trade of the province. The beans or bean cakes were carted or shipped by river junk to Newchwang to be stored in the godowns of the leading merchants who also controlled the ocean shipping. At the time when the Japanese farmer required their agencies throughout the interior were in the hands of Chinese as they were debarrd from establishing branches outside the treaty port. The Chinese traders brought the bean products to the market at Newchwang receiving in exchange their stock of foreign piece goods and other sundries for the interior trade. The Japanese purchasers of bean cakes paid the foreigner his profit on the turnover, plus the storage charges lighterage and freight and were apparently contented with a situation impossible for them to remedy.

But the war came and changed all this. Japanese merchants entered the field and with the ice free port of Dalren as a base commenced an aggressive campaign to gain control of this important trade. The end was inevitable. As Japan consumed the bulk of the bean-cake, and controlled the railway transportation to a port where storage and lighterage could be eliminated, loading charges reduced to a minimum and their own steamships employed to freight the product to Japan at all seasons, it was natural that her merchants would underbid the foreigner and take away his monopoly. Despite the discriminating railway rate, giving Dalren the bulk of Manchurian products for her own consumption, she would in turn have controlled the import trade under purely natural laws, without official aid or interference.

"Under these conditions the foreign merchants and their agents in the interior were placed at a disadvantage from the outset. As they could not penetrate into the interior and purchase beans by an exchange of commodities, they were reduced to selling their wares for cash. The one thing the native was short on. If they attempted to follow the lead of the Japanese and barter merchandise for beans, they were handicapped by the various charges at Newchwang, and having ultimately to sell to the Japanese at their price, which of course, was unprofitable under the then existing conditions. The decadence of American and European imports followed as a natural consequence. A few venturesome American and British piece goods agents established themselves in the interior, firmly determined to win back their lost trade, but acting solely as sellers and unable to reciprocate by purchasing the products of the farmer, results were discouraging, and they finally had to abandon the field as unprofitable.

"This, in short, is the real reason for Japan's success in Manchuria. If all the alleged breaches of the 'open door,' and all the unfair tactics of the South Manchurian railroad actually occurred, it is difficult to see how they could have altered the inevitable working of a simple economic law."

Opened to Trade

"As a result of the war many inland treaty ports were thrown open to trade, and where previously the foreigner was confined to the one port of Newchwang, and forced to deal with the interior through native agents, he could now branch out himself in many large centres of trade throughout the province. Hampered by his established native connections, he could not immediately take advantage of this new opportunity without seriously affecting his relations with his old customers. And then again, while the country was under Japanese military, with its prohibition against travel in the interior, his hands were tied while his rivals were undermining his position.

"On the other hand, the Japanese had no old business connection or traditions to uphold, and as the new ports were opened, branches of their leading firms were quickly established. "With a perfect commercial organization in all the open cities of Manchuria, and with storehouses filled with manufactured products rushed on the scene from a near-by source of supply, it was only natural that Japan should soon control the import trade of the province. It must be admitted that the natural commercial advantages were materially aided during the first year or two of military control, by tactics open to criticism, but long as she continued to purchase the bulk of Manchurian products for her own consumption, she would in turn have controlled the import trade under purely natural laws, without official aid or interference.

"Under these conditions the foreign merchants and their agents in the interior were placed at a disadvantage from the outset. As they could not penetrate into the interior and purchase beans by an exchange of commodities, they were reduced to selling their wares for cash. The one thing the native was short on. If they attempted to follow the lead of the Japanese and barter merchandise for beans, they were handicapped by the various charges at Newchwang, and having ultimately to sell to the Japanese at their price, which of course, was unprofitable under the then existing conditions. The decadence of American and European imports followed as a natural consequence. A few venturesome American and British piece goods agents established themselves in the interior, firmly determined to win back their lost trade, but acting solely as sellers and unable to reciprocate by purchasing the products of the farmer, results were discouraging, and they finally had to abandon the field as unprofitable.

DAMAGE REPORTS INFLUENCE MARKET

Crop Prospects Said to Be Affected by the Unfavorable Weather Conditions in the Northwest

CHICAGO, June 17.—It was a trying day for most people in the Chicago wheat trade. Early reports of a few light rains in the northwest caused buyers to go a little slow the first half hour. Then there was a batch of bad reports from the spring wheat states. Snow found conditions very bad in North Dakota. Leaders in the Minneapolis trade said the situation was getting serious for want of general rains. There was a strong upturn of about a cent for all months at the end of the first hour but a good portion of this advance was lost at midday. The last half hour brought a return of strength and prices went to the highest point of the day. Last prices were about 3/4 cent under the top. There is the greatest interest possible in the conditions developing in the spring wheat country. Good people declare that if the present hot dry weather runs a few days longer the crop promise will be decidedly lowered.

The Modern Miller declares that harvest conditions are largely improved in the far southwest but the soft winter wheat states show little better than half a crop. For the present the market will turn on northwest advices.

ACTIVITY IN JAPANESE SHIPPING

Monteagle Brings News of Revival—Duty on Steamers to Be Raised by Japan.

Advices were brought by the steamer Monteagle yesterday that the Tokyo Asahi notes with satisfaction that the shipping industry in Japan has lately shown signs of activity. In common with other countries. Since about the beginning of this year the railway traffic at home has become brisk, as have also the transactions in the clearing houses throughout the country. These facts tend to show that commercial and industrial circles, which have remained dull during the past few years, are now gradually recovering their normal condition. The introduction to Japan of part of the four per cent. conversion loan raised in Paris last month will also give an impetus to the domestic economic market. The activity in shipping circles is so great that the shipping companies are now experiencing great inconvenience owing to the lack of steamers available. The result being that the price of steamers is steadily rising. The Tokyo paper emphasizes the fact that after July next year, when the revised tariff is enforced, the import duty on steamers, which is at present fixed at ten per cent., will be raised to from ten to fifteen yen per ton. The shipping capacity in Japan is quite limited and is therefore unable to promptly meet the requirements of the shipping world. In consideration of all these facts, remarks the paper in conclusion, the shipping companies in Japan will experience great difficulty in purchasing or hiring foreign steamers when business revives all round.

THE WHITEHAVEN EXPLOSION

An awful feature of the Whitehaven explosion is the fact that many of the 136 men who lost their lives must have lived sufficiently long to realize to the full the hopelessness of their situation.

It must always be seen a terrible act to kill a fellow creature from all hope of life, but there can be no two opinions as to the wisdom of and justification for the step taken by the management. Before it was taken repeated efforts, under circumstances of great danger, had been made to reach the seat of the fire in the main incline; to persevere further was to risk a second explosion and an addition to the death roll, such as occurred at the Glencoe Colliery in Natal. The real test of moral bravery on such occasions is to know when to desist from futile attempts to rescue. Whenever a colliery explosion occurs there is always a multitude of willing volunteers ready to run the greatest hazards, but it requires bravery of a higher order to close the shaft against them. All that could be done under the circumstances was done, and it is to be hoped that it is not possible

whether at the time the rescue parties were withdrawn any of those immured in the workings remained alive. The last effort to reach the fire was made by Messrs. Thorne and Littlewood, equipped with the "Meco" helmet apparatus. Unstinted praise must be given to these men, the former of whom had already made the Edward Medal for his work following the fire at Hamstead.

According to their account the conditions at Whitehaven were infinitely worse than at Hamstead. The heat was so intense, we are told, that the metal on the helmets fused, and neither men nor apparatus can be blamed for the failure to reach the seat of the fire. From the details, however, that are before us at this stage, it is a reasonable conclusion to form that had breathing appliances been on the spot at the time of the explosion, instead of thirty hours later, lives might have been saved. The chief justification for this belief lies in the fact that two men, after persistent efforts, managed to traverse the fire area from the workings and left beyond several workmen who were then in full possession of their faculties. The moral is, that to be of service, there must be a rescue station within easy reach of, and trained men at, each colliery. One of the few happy results of the Whitehaven disaster may be to convert colliery owners to this view, not only in Cumberland, but in some other districts.
